WILKINS FINDS NO LAND AT POLE

DISCOVERIES FAIL TO HELP KNOWLEDGE OF BARREN SECTION

Reach Spitzbergen After Hop Across Northern Axis.

OSLO, Norway, April 23.—If, as some Arctic explorers believe, a continent exists at the North Pole, Capt. George H. Wilkins and Pilot Carl B. Eielson failed to find it on their dash by plane from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen.

Capt. Wilkins and the American aviator are at Green Harbor, Spitzbergen, today where the former is assembling his data for a report to the National Geographical Society of America. While Capt. Wilkins made observations of great scientific value, reports received here so far indicated that he had made no new discoveries. Part of the time the aviators were in the air their vision was obscured by mist and clouds.

The landing gear of the plane was slightly damaged in landing on the ice at Green Harbor, after the hop off from Dead Man's Island, but it is believed here that the damage is not extensive and can easily be repaired. However, it is now known if there is sufficient gasoline at Green Harbor available to allow the explorers to continue their flight southward if they decide to do so.

No official advices have arrived here from Wilkins as to his future plans, but it is currently believed that he may try to continue the flight to Oslo and England, returning to the United States by steamship with the plane.

The explorers ran into an Arctic gale of great violence after they had flown approximately 2,100 miles and were within 35 miles of their goal—Spitzbergen. This storm continued to rage for five days, holding the airmen upon Doedmansøra from Monday afternoon until Saturday morning when they were able to hop off from the bleak, desolate and uninhabited bit of land to complete their long and daring voyage at Green Harbor.

Despite the hardships, cold and lack of food the men are both in good condition and are able to continue their journey at once if they decide to do so.

The weather was far below zero during the entire flight, and at times the cold was terrific, but the Lockheed-Vega monoplane used by the airmen demonstrated that icy atmospheric conditions do not hinder the working of an airplane motor.

More than twenty hours the ship roared over the Arctic wastes with the motor working perfectly all the time.

There are two courses open to the explorers:

1. They can remain at Spitzbergen until a steamer arrives to carry them southward;
2. They can continue their flight southward if they obtain gasoline.

Reports from the north state that there is a heavy ice pack off the Spitzbergen coast which may prevent a ship from getting in or out of Green Harbor for weeks. The weather is stormy and unfit for flying at this time.

That the men were able to complete more than 2,000 miles of their flight without a break indicates that they were favored by excellent weather conditions. Aside from the cold, the ice mist and wind they probably encountered no great difficulties. There is always danger of fog in the Arctic if a high wind encounters open water. This results in fog.

There is intense enthusiasm throughout Scandinavia over the flight, as this is the "land of explorers." Capt. Wilkins' detailed report of his epic journey is awaited with eager anticipation.

Wireless stations have intercepted a veritable flood of messages addressed to Wilkins and Eielson at the Green Harbor radio station. These come from friends, from scientific bodies and from newspapers and press associations seeking details of the "great adventure of the far north."

ADELAIDE, Australia, April 23.—One of the proudest women in Australia today is the 56-year-old mother of Capt. George H. Wilkins, the trans-Arctic aviator.

"I am very proud of my son's achievement," said Mrs. Wilkins. "I am glad that George has done what he set out to do. He is a good son both in words and actions."

Capt. Wilkins is one of twelve children.

CALLS ON TAGGART

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., April 23.—Alfred E. Smith, Jr., son of the governor of New York, and John J. Taggart, chairman of the New York Racing Commission, were here today for a week's vacation. Young Smith and Thomas D. Taggart, son of former United States Senator Taggart, spent some time together. Smith will call on the senior Taggart today. He declared there was no political significance of his visit.

PLOT TO KIDNAP PICTURE STAR FOILED

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—A plot to kidnap Dolores Del Rio and hold the Mexican screen beauty for $100,000 ransom was revealed here today with three suspected conspirators under arrest.

At the same time it was learned that police have been guarding the star's home in Hollywood for the last two months and that a plainclothesman accompanied Miss Del Rio on her recent trip to Nogales, Mexico, where she went to obtain a divorce. These precautions were taken because the kidnapping threat has been known to police.

Details of the kidnapping conspiracy were disclosed by Gustavo Carillo, 27, in a purported confession to police.

He implicated Rosa Ayala, 34, former maid of Miss Del Rio, recently discharged, and four other men, one of whom is under arrest. The name of the third suspect in custody was withheld.

The asserted plot was intended to have as its aim the extortion of $100,000 in ransom from Senator J. L. Asmus, wealthy Mexico City resident and father of the motion picture star. Demands for ransom money were also to be made upon the producers of Miss Del Rio's pictures.

BALCHEN PILOTING FORD RELIEF PLANE TO REACH AVIATORS

Fitzmaurice Also In Plane As Bennett Remains Ill.

QUEBEC, Que., April 23.—The Ford relief plane piloted by Bernt Balchen and carrying replacement parts for the transatlantic plane Bremen hopped off at Seven Islands at 5:10 o'clock this morning, according to word reaching here.

The Ford plane had dropped off at Lake St. Agnes yesterday morning, but was compelled by stormy weather to land at Seven Islands. Balchen was accompanied by Major James E. Fitzmaurice, Irish member of the Bremen's crew. It is 460 miles from Seven Islands to Greenely Island.

The doctors at the Jeffrey Hale Hospital announced that Floyd Bennett, aviator who accompanied Balchen in the Ford plane from Detroit to Lake St. Agnes, spent a restless night. He is suffering from the flu and bronchitis and has a high fever. Mrs. Bennett, wife of the flyer, Commander Richard E. Byrd, and several more doctors are due this afternoon.

Ernest Keppen, chief mechanic of the Junkers company, and a newspaperman are accompanying Fitzmaurice and Balchen.

BOSTON, April 23.—Cancelling all engagements, Commander Richard E. Byrd, aviator who accompanied Balchen in the Ford plane from Detroit to Lake St. Agnes, spent a restless night. He is suffering from the flu and bronchitis and has a high fever. Mrs. Bennett, wife of the flyer, Commander Richard E. Byrd, and several more doctors are due this afternoon.

The commander missed an earlier train to Quebec and was greatly worried at not being able to get to the bedside of his friend. Bennett was second in command of the proposed Byrd Antarctic expedition, being considered indispensable for the trip.

A year ago Bennett was seriously injured when his plane overturned while he was preparing for the Byrd transatlantic flight and spent several months in a hospital.

Mrs. Bennett and New York specialists were rushing from that city to Quebec, according to word received by Commander Byrd.

ROGERS WILL HAVE TO PUT UP OR-

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Will Rogers, the comedian, has told one joke too many and his last one will cost him $5, according to Senator William E. Rogers (R) of Idaho.

Rogers boasted $5 to Borah's "Republican science fund," which the Idaho senator is raising to repay the $100,000 "loaned" by Harry F. Sinclair to the Republican party in 1923. Rogers said he had listed five Republicans he wanted Borah to "clean" for his five dollars.

The only thing wrong with Rogers' little joke, Borah said today, was that he never sent in the five bucks.

"But," Borah added, "I'm going to write him and ask for the five."

Borah also announced he would not abandon his plan for raising the $100,000 even though Sinclair won an acquittal here Saturday.

NEW ENGLAND GRIPPED BY SEVERE STORM; THIRTY PEOPLE HURT

BOSTON, April 23.—New England today continued in the grip of a northeast storm, which tied up shipping, caused widespread damage to crops, resulted in automobile crashes which injured thirty persons and caused the wreck of two freight trains.

Rain, hail, snow and sleet fell. Sections of New Hampshire were blanketed with snow.

The storm roared off the coast. The steamship City of Columbus from the south was forced to anchor off Handkerchief Lightship. The wreck of the freight trains

E X - INVESTIGATOR FOR STATE ATTORNEY CROWE MURDERED

CHICAGO, April 23.—Ben Newmark, former chief investigator for State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, was shot to death in his home by unknown assassins early today.

Newmark was sitting on one of two beds when the assassins fired upon him with several shotguns through the window of his bungalow.

Mrs. Newmark had retired in the other bed but was not yet asleep when her husband was slain. Mrs. Newmark was in a state of hysteria when police arrived and could not give a coherent account of the shooting. Newmark was still breathing when the officers found him, but he died on his bed without making a statement.

The assassins had placed a flower box on the ground underneath the bedroom window on which they stood to fire the fatal shots.

The window was protected with iron bars, as were all of the bungalow windows. The murderers stuck the shot gun through the bars and into the open window.

LOCAL RALLIES MARK FINISH OF OHIO PRIMARY CAMPAIGN

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Local rallies throughout Ohio tonight will mark the end of the oratorical phase of the Willis-Hoover contest which terminates tomorrow at Ohio's presidential preference primaries.

Buckeye state voters at statewide primary election tomorrow, will register their choice of the various presidential candidates, will select delegations to represent Ohio at the Republican and Democratic national conventions next June, and will elect delegates and alternates who will attend the state conventions of these two political parties here this summer.

At the Republican primary, the major interest lies in the contest between the Willis and Hoover forces for selection of delegates and alternates to the Republican national convention. This Ohio delegation will comprise fifty-one delegates and fifty-two alternates.

O. P. presidential preferential ballot contains the names of the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Attorney Olin J. Ross, Columbus.

The voters will select a delegation, consisting of fifty-two delegates and fifty-two alternates, to represent Ohio at the Democratic national convention.

Although no "weighed in" as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Ohio Democrats tomorrow are expected to write on their blank presidential preference ballot their first and second choices for president and vice president.

Except in one or two congressional districts, the nominations made by the Democratic state committees for delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention are unopposed.

CLEVELAND, O., April 23.—While police sought to recapture two alleged confidence men, who "skipped" their bail here last week, Safety Director Ed Barry today ordered an investigation of the detective bureau to determine who was responsible for setting the low bond of $1,000 each for the prisoners.

George Duncan, 58, of Lawrenceville, Ill., and Elmo Barnett, 61, of Los Angeles, Cal., the alleged swindlers, were arrested in a hotel here Friday night on charges by George Seitz, Columbus contractor, that they attempted to take $13,000 from him in a confidence scheme.

Their bonds of $1,000 each were furnished and they failed to appear in court, Saturday. George Lee, of Dallas, Tex., arrested with Duncan and Barnett, is held for federal authorities under $25,000 bond.

Safety Director Barry leveled a sharp criticism at the detective bureau, and said he intended to learn why the other two were allowed to go free on bonds which he characterized as "ridiculous."

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., April 23.—Duncan McDonald, veteran coal miner, addressed a "Save the George Seitz" Columbus contractor, that they attempted to take $13,000 from him in a confidence scheme.

REPORTED CORINTH RUINED BY QUAKE; ELEVEN ARE KILLED

Four Violent Shocks
Shatter Ancient City
Of Greece

ATHENS, Greece, April 23.—Eleven persons were killed or wounded at Corinth by four violent earthquake shocks, according to word from that district today. The entire population was thrown into panic. The jail was partly destroyed, liberating the prisoners. Relief measures are being undertaken by the government. No damage was done by the tremors here.

Earthquakes in the Balkans during the last week have taken a toll of more than 200 lives, injured hundreds, made thousands homeless and caused property damage running into millions.

So far the heaviest damage has been confined to Bulgaria, where many cities, towns and villages have suffered heavy damage.

The town of Lutraki is believed to have been wiped out by the shocks. The number of casualties there has not been ascertained. Many other districts are also said to have been affected by the shocks.

MILITANT WOMEN TO BE RELEASED AFTER MARCHING TO JAIL

Promises Of Good Behavior Exacted From Prisoners

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 23.—Fifty-one militant women, who marched on the county jail here Saturday afternoon, demanded admittance—and got it—will be released tomorrow if they promise to return peacefully to their homes in Mutton Hollow, near Bridgeport, and make no further disturbance, Prosecutor P. V. Waddell said today.

The prisoners were part of a mob of about 300 persons which left Mutton Hollow in trucks, to put on a demonstration here for thirty-eight persons, arrested during the week in connection with disturbances in the hollow.

The Shadyside Coal company's mine at that point is being operated in opposition to the "Save the Union" faction of the United Mine Workers of America. This group has asked the removal of John Lewis, president of the U. M. W., and has opposed the return to work of union miners in the Mutton Hollow mine, although the union is said to have announced the reopening of this particular mine.

As the result of a series of disturbances last week, when mobs on several occasions attempted to prevent miners from entering the shaft, thirty-eight persons were arrested Saturday, a crowd of "Save the Union" sympathizers gathered in the hollow and started for St. Clairsville in trucks.

Learning that a company of Ohio National Guardsmen, stationed here, was awaiting their arrival, all but fifty-one women and the men turned back. Those who walked up to the jail and demanded that they be allowed to see the prisoners, many of whom were husbands or fathers of the women.

Col. Don Caldwell ordered that the party be allowed to enter and when all were inside the jail the doors were closed. No specific charges have been filed against the women, though the six men will be charged with rioting, Prosecutor Waddell said. Unless they repent, the women will be formally charged with inciting to riot tomorrow, he said.

The women were most bitter, today however and there were few manifestations of repentance. Several cursed and shouted through the bars, "down with Lewis!" Sheriff C. C. Hardesty drove to Mutton Hollow yesterday and brought five young babies to the jail in order that they might be nursed by their mothers. They were returned home in the afternoon, but were not brought back to the jail again today. A physician was in attendance for several of the women yesterday.

Most of the women are Polish. The prosecutor said he was willing to release them all on condition of good behavior. The total population of the jail was 110 today.

XENIA YOUTHS HELD IN SPRINGFIELD ON ABDUCTION CHARGE

Pair Arrested By Police
Here For Sheriff
Benham

Two Xenia youths are being held in the Clark County Jail in connection with the alleged attempted abduction of Lucille Buck, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Buck, 773 Farlowe St., Springfield, O., from in front of the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia traction office in Xenia last March 11.

They are: Dwight Ackley, 20, Thornhill Ave., and Jack Thompson, 21, this city.

The boys were arrested in Xenia Saturday. Thompson was arrested by Patrolman Fred Jones at a local billiard parlor. He was required to pay the balance of an old fine amounting to $2.40, due since 1926. Ackley was later taken into custody.

The arrests climaxed a month's investigation upon the part of Xenia police and authorities of Greene and Clark Counties, following the girl's story that she was kidnapped by two boys and taken for an auto ride.

According to her story, she escaped from the Ford roadster in which she was being held captive, by leaping from the machine at the intersection of the Possum Road and the Yellow Springs Pike in Clark County.

The girl then ran to the nearby residence of Professor E. W. Tiffany, principal of Springfield High School

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 23—

Rock Hill, S. C., has a prodigious figuring machine that walks on two feet. Joseph Taylor moves figures about in his head like puppets on a board. This mathematics wizard can add, divide, subtract and multiply not only whole numbers, but intricate fractions, and give you the answer almost as quickly as you can announce the figures.

Taylor is a mathematics contonist.

The number artist is stopped on the streets, in banks and filling stations, and asked to demonstrate his remarkable gift. He is a favorite at social gatherings, his ability to perform tricks with figures always being sufficient to keep a crowd amused. He is very accommodating in demonstrating his gift.

He is often called upon to perform before classes in mathematics.

Almost every evening friends and neighbors pilot strangers to Rock Hill to Joe Taylor's home. Equations are popped at him just as rapidly as they can be enunciated, and the result comes back simultaneously and always correctly. When asked to multiply 250 by 12 1/2, the host answers promptly: 3,125.

MISS McDONNELL TO APPEAR IN CONCERT HERE WEDNESDAY

An event of more than ordinary interest in local musical circles is the approaching concert to be given in the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium at Central High next Wednesday evening by Miss Eleanor McDonnell of this city.

Miss McDonnell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McDonnell, is a native Xenian—the possessor of a rich coloratura soprano voice to which is added the charm and grace of youth. Her voice has for the past two years received its training and development under the experienced and earnest direction of Grant Odell formerly of New York but more recently the master of a voice studio in Dayton. It is under his tutelage that the gifted young singer makes her bow before the Xenia public next Wednesday evening. He will be the piano accompanist to Miss McDonnell in all the operatic and lighter selections that have been chosen for the evening's entertainment.

The interludes will be filled with piano and violin selections played by the singer's two sisters, the Misses Mary and Margaret McDonnell. While it is true that "a prophet is never accepted in his own country," the same does not apply to those gifted with rare voices. It is related that Marion Taylor, the celebrated Metropolitan star, was fired with the ambition to attain such heights principally through the encouragement received from her friends and neighbors in her home town of Kansas City.

The tickets which have been placed on sale under the auspices of the Catholic Ladies of Columbia have been taken in large numbers by the friends and admirers of the young soloist and the musical clientele, and the indications point to a sold out house on the night of the entertainment. Some seats still remain and may be obtained either at Geyer's Book Store or the Osterly Millinery Store.

The following program will be rendered:

1. Aria, "Pace, pace mio Dio," Verdi (From the opera La Forza del Destino) Eleanor McDonnell.
2. "The Nightingale," Batten, Eleanor McDonnell.
3. Violin solo, "Meditation from Thais," Massenet, Margaret McDonnell.
4. "Ave Maria" (With violin obligato) Gaunod, Eleanor McDonnell.
5. "Sogni" (I Dreamt), Schira, Eleanor McDonnell.
6. Violin solo "To a Wild Rose," Macdowell, Margaret McDonnell.
7. (a) "The Crying of Water," Campbell, Tipton; (b) "The Old Refrain Greisler, Eleanor McDonnell.

Accompanists—Grant Odell, Mary McDonnell.

YALE MOVES BODY OF JOHN TRUMBULL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 23—Out of the depths of an ancient cellar on the old Yale campus here, the bodies of John Trumbull, member of Washington's staff, and his wife were lifted and borne in reverence to a new resting place in the basement of another, newer Yale building recently.

For Colonel Trumbull, after the Revolution a noted artist, bequeathed valued paintings to Yale with the specific request that his body always should be beneath the building that housed the paintings.

Yale has obeyed the request scrupulously all through the years, and the removal this Spring, was the second that the remains of Colonel Trumbull have undergone.

SAYS POKER WILL RUIN PRINCIPLES

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 23—"Poker playing in the home—it makes no difference whether you play for dollars or pennies."

So the Rev. Charles L. Grant, pastor of Faith English Lutheran Church here, told members of the men's club of his church at a meeting.

Poker playing in the home by parents was assailed emphatically by the pastor.

"It is the principle of the thing—and the principle shown is far from exemplary," Rev. Mr. Grant said. "The parent plays, the child looks on and the spirit of greed and avarice thus exhibited gives the child a natural desire to imitate."

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now served without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Youngest Mayor

Mayor Marvin L. Siebert

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to Gazette

NINETY-SIX, S. C., April 23—

Ninety-Six, a town old, historic and celebrated in Revolutionary legend, is young in its ideas. It boasts of its tradition—but it doesn't live in the past, for Ninety-Six lays claim to having the youngest mayor in the United States.

He is Marvin L. Siebert, 23, who when he is not operating his grocery store and meat market, sits at the head of the town council and directs the affairs of the municipality.

Born in Laurens County, near Princeton, S. C., Siebert attended Greenwood High School in Greenwood County. Five years ago he came to Ninety-Six, where he began his career by working in a meat market at a cotton mill. He progressed rapidly.

Married, he has a son—who, the father hopes will choose his own career, as he did his.

Poems that Live

THE GYPSY GIRL

Passing I saw her as she stood beside

A lonely stream between two barren wolds;

Her loose vest hung in rudely gathered folds

On her swart bosom, which in maiden pride

Pillowed a string of pearls; among her hair

Twined the light bluebell and the stone-crop gay;

And not far thence the small encampment lay,

Curling its wreathed smoke into the air.

She seemed a child of some sun-favored clime;

So still, so habituated to warmth and rest;

And in my wayward musings on past time,

When my thought fills with treasured memories,

That image nearest borders on the blest

Creations of pure art that never dies.

MOTORISTS WILL HAVE AUTO BRAKES TESTED AS FEATURE OF "BETTER BRAKES WEEK" IN XENIA

PROCLAMATION

The city of Xenia is unanimous, I know, in wishing to cut down its toll of traffic accidents and unnecessary hazards. Nothing is more vital in the complete control of an automobile in traffic than perfect brakes.

That the automobile drivers of this city may help in reducing the many accidents, I respectively urged all motorists of Xenia to have their brakes tested during this week under the auspices of the Greene County Automobile Club and I hereby set aside Market Street, between King and Galloway streets, during the entire week for this purpose.

Further, I HEREBY PROCLAIM the week of April 23 as "BETTER BRAKES WEEK" for the city of Xenia and in accordance with the request of the governor of Ohio set aside the week for the study of more careful and thoughtful driving.

(Signed) J. W. PRUGH, Mayor of Xenia, Ohio.

WILL REORGANIZE FIVE COLLEGES AT STATE UNIVERSITY

COLUMBUS, O., April 21—Five of the eleven colleges on the Ohio State University campus will be reorganized with junior and senior divisions before the start of the fall term this year, it was announced at the university today.

In addition to the reorganization of the five colleges, the office of junior dean will be created in each of the five and a junior council will be established, it is stated.

The changes recommended by the faculty after more than a year's consideration and approved recently by the university board of trustees, are declared to be another step in the university's effort to solve the problems of mass education, particularly those of the freshman and sophomore years. As a result of the changes "Freshmen Week" inaugurated for the first time last fall, the office of students' counsel and other changes of the last two years under President George W. Rightmire, will be discontinued.

The major aims of the program are to humanize education by giving more careful attention to the individual students and to reduce the number of student failures, by more effective teaching and administration. The junior college is being designed to give the individual student more personal attention.

Junior divisions will be established in the colleges of agriculture, liberal arts, commerce and administration, education and engineering.

PLANT SPECIMENS FROM TROPICS

MIAMI, Fla., April 23—The yacht "Lorraine," owned by Allison V. Armour, returned to Miami recently with a rare collection of tropical plant life collected from the Equatorial Belt.

On board the yacht was Dr. David Fairchild, former government botanist who made the voyage on the original Armour expedition which required four years in touring America, Siam and other points.

The yacht carried more than 17,000 specimens which will be exploited here.

ARRESTED AGAIN

Frank Ford, Xenia, arrested Monday morning by Sheriff Ohmer Tate on an intoxication charge, will probably be required to pay a $200 fine or serve a workhouse sentence imposed in probate court last week for possessing liquor, officials say.

Every motorist in Xenia and the immediate surrounding territory will be given an opportunity of having his brakes tested free of charge beginning Monday and all during this week—"Better Brakes Week"—under the auspices of the Greene County Automobile Club, Secretary Oliver Beiden of the organization announces.

In line with the proclamation of Mayor J. W. Prugh and Governor Donahy requesting motorists of the city and state to begin the spring driving with perfectly controlled brakes as an aid in cutting down traffic accidents, Market St., between King and Galloway Sts., has been set aside for the entire week.

Three white lines are painted on the pavement, the first line being the point where the brakes are to be applied. Twenty-two feet from this is another line at which cars with four-wheel brakes are to stop. The third is thirty-seven feet from the first line and is the mark on which two-wheel brakes will stop.

The motorist whose brakes are being tested will be directed to approach the "brakes" line at twenty miles per hour. A flagman with a whistle will be stationed at the line to signal the driver to apply brakes.

If the car takes hold evenly and stops within the required distance, an "O. K." sticker will be placed on his windshield. Otherwise the driver will be given a notice stating the condition of his brakes.

The campaign for better brakes was begun early this month at a meeting of auto club secretaries and directors at Columbus, under auspices of the Ohio State Automobile Association (Governor Donahy and Mayor J. W. Prugh offered their immediate cooperation and Mayor Prugh agreed to set aside sufficient street space for the undertaking.

According to an analysis of traffic accident causes in serious cases recently conducted by the state association under the direction of Secretary Charles C. Jones, faulty brakes was discovered to be one of the greatest contributors.

"We're going to try to start every car off right in the heavier spring traffic of Greene County," Secretary Beiden of the Greene County Automobile Club, declared. "There are many other causes of accidents which we can eliminate, but bad brakes is a thing easily remedied."

There will be absolutely no commercialism in the campaign. If brakes are found faulty, each car owner will be expected to take his car to his own repairman for remedy. Adjustment of brakes is inexpensive and should be taken care of not once, but several times a year."

Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, and O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, have been placed in charge of the project. Leroy Wones has been employed as clerk.

GROSS NEGLIGENCE IS BASIS FOR DIVORCE

A charge of gross neglect of duty forming the basis of a divorce suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Edith Stewart against John Stewart, Plaintiff alleges that her husband gambled and drank and that through his profligacy, she received no benefit from his wages but was forced to rely on her own efforts in order to exist.

They were married at Chillicothe, O. March 9, 1925. Plaintiff asks to be decreed custody of their minor child, John Stewart, Jr., 2.

Divorce is also sought in a suit filed by Harry Sales against Rosetta Sales, 725 E. Main St. Plaintiff charges gross neglect of duty. The couple was married in Xenia October 13, 1924. No children were born of the union.

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human being to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

On her swart bosom, which in maiden pride
Pillowed a string of pearls; among her hair
Twined the light bluebell and the stone-crop gay;
And not far thence the small encampment lay,
Curling its wreathed smoke into the air.
She seemed a child of some sun-favored clime;
So still, so habit to warmth and rest;
And in my wayward musings on past time,
When my thought fills with treasured memories,
That image nearest borders on the blest
Of the purest art that e'er a mortal dies.

PROCLAMATION

The city of Xenia is unanimous, I know, in wishing to cut down its toll of traffic accidents and unnecessary hazards. Nothing is more vital in the complete control of an automobile in traffic than perfect brakes.

That the automobile drivers of this city may help in reducing the many accidents, I respectively urged all motorists of Xenia to have their brakes tested during this week under the auspices of the Greene County Automobile Club and I hereby set aside Market Street, between King and Galloway Streets, during the entire week for this purpose.

Further, I HEREBY PROCLAIM the week of April 23 as "BETTER BRAKES WEEK" for the city of Xenia and in accordance with the request of the governor of Ohio set aside the week for this more careful and thoughtful driving.

(Signed)
J. W. PRUGH,
Mayor of Xenia, Ohio.

WILL REORGANIZE FIVE COLLEGES AT STATE UNIVERSITY

COLUMBUS, O., April 21.—Five of the eleven colleges on the Ohio State University campus will be reorganized with junior and senior divisions before the start of the fall term this year, it was announced at the university today.

In addition to the reorganization of the five colleges, the office of junior dean will be created in each of the five and a junior council will be established. It is stated.

The changes recommended by the faculty after more than a year's consideration and approved recently by the university board of trustees, are declared to be another step in the university's effort to solve the problems of mass education, particularly those of the freshman and sophomore years. As a result of the changes "Freshmen Week" inaugurated for the first time last fall, the office of students' counselor and other changes of the last two years under President George W. Rightmire, will be discontinued.

The major aims of the program are to humanize education by giving more careful attention to the individual student and to reduce the number of student failures, by more effective teaching and administration. The junior college is being designed to give the individual student more personal attention. Junior divisions will be established in the colleges of agriculture, liberal arts, commerce and administration, education and engineering.

Every motorist in Xenia and to immediate surrounding territory will be given an opportunity of having his brakes tested free of charge beginning Monday and all during this week "Better Brakes Week" under the auspices of the Greene County Automobile Club, Secretary Driver Belden of the organization announces.

In line with the proclamation of Mayor J. W. Prugh and Governor Donahy requesting motorists of the city and state to begin the spring driving with perfectly controlled brakes as an aid in cutting down traffic accidents, Market St., between King and Galloway Sts., has been set aside for the entire week.

Three white lines are painted on the pavement, the first line being the point where the brakes are to be applied. Twenty-two feet from this is another line at which cars with four-wheel brakes are to stop. The third is thirty-seven feet from the first line and is the mark on which two-wheel brakes will stop.

The motorist whose brakes are being tested will be directed to approach the "brakes" line at twenty miles per hour. A flagman with a whistle will be stationed at the line to signal the driver to apply brakes.

If the car takes hold evenly and stops within the required distance, an "O. K." sticker will be placed on his windshield. Otherwise the driver will be given a notice stating the condition of his brakes.

The campaign for better brakes was begun early this month at a meeting of auto club secretaries and directors at Columbus, under auspices of the Ohio State Automobile Association Governor Donahy and Mayor J. W. Prugh offered their immediate cooperation and Mayor Prugh agreed to set aside sufficient street space for the undertaking.

According to an analysis of traffic accident causes in serious cases recently conducted by the state association under the direction of Secretary Charles C. James, faulty brakes was discovered to be one of the greatest contributors.

"We're going to try to start every car off right in the heavier spring traffic of Greene County," Secretary Belden of the Greene County Automobile Club, declared. "There are many other causes of accidents which we can eliminate, but bad brakes is a thing easily remedied."

There will be absolutely no commercialism in the campaign. If brakes are found faulty, each car owner will be expected to take his car to his own repairman for remedy. Adjustment of brakes is inexpensive and should be taken care of not once, but several times a year.

Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, and O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, have been placed in charge of the project. Leroy Wones has been employed as clerk.

PLANT SPECIMENS FROM TROPICS

MIAMI, Fla., April 23.—The yacht "Utowana" owned by Allison V. Armour, returned to Miami recently with a rare collection of tropical plant life collected from the Equatorial Belt.

On board the yacht was Dr. David Fairchild, former government botanist who made the voyage on the original Armour expedition which required four years in touring America, Spain and other points.

The yacht carried more than 17,000 specimens which will be exhibited here.

ARRESTED AGAIN

Frank Ford, Xenia, arrested Monday morning by Sheriff Ohmer Tate on an intoxication charge, will probably be required to pay a $200 fine or serve a workhouse sentence imposed in probate court last week for possessing liquor, officials say.

"LIVE WIRE" FATAL
GALESBURG, Ill., April 23.—Thomas Godsell, 48, city policeman was instantly killed when he touched an live light which fell after auto hit the pole.

ESCAPES INJURY
DUBLIN, April 23.—Friends day-bombed President William T. Cosgrave, of the Irish Fi State, with messages of congratulation upon his narrow escape yesterday when his car crashed into telegraph pole at Clonsilla.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PATH OF THE JUST—The path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. The way of the wicked is as darkness; they know not at what they stumble.—Prov. 4:18, 19.

AN EXPENSIVE PROJECT

It is impossible to figure what Muscle Shoals has cost the taxpayers. Few persons know just how many years it has been kicked around Congress. If anyone tried to figure up the time which the paid servants of the American people in the House of Representatives and the Senate have wasted on this question, the value of the lost time charged against the public payroll would be astounding.

For political purposes Muscle Shoals has been magnified into a national issue, when in reality it is just one ordinary power project similar to many which are built and operated by private companies all over the United States.

Muscle Shoals is a typical example of what happens to an industry which becomes bogged in the quagmire of politics—the taxpayers lose, the country loses and private development is discouraged with resulting loss and detriment to territory affected.

THE CLEVELAND CONFERENCE

President Coolidge has issued a challenge to the men and women of the United States who are interested in the cause of peace. "It is for the generation which saw and survived (the World War) to devise methods of prevention," he said. "If we fail in this, we shall deserve all the disaster which will surely be visited upon us, because of our failure."

It is absolutely essential that some alternative to war shall be found if civilization is to survive.

The American Peace society, which celebrates its centennial in Cleveland in May, has taken up the challenge of the President on behalf of its members and of the friends of world peace. It is now planning a great gathering of the leading statesmen of the world and of interested men and women from all over the nation to discuss in open meeting the methods which may bring peace to the world.

Those things upon which there can be concerted public action will be outlined, so that public opinion may be brought to bear upon a rational peace among nations, based upon international justice.

Just how firmly the President is in accord with the program of the Centennial Celebration of the American Peace society and this great conference on international justice which it will direct is seen from the fact that he has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the national committee for the anniversary celebration. A number of citizens from this county serve on the Ohio committee.

It is an opportunity of a life time for the serious-minded of America to have a part in this great movement looking toward world peace.

The eyes of the world will be focused upon the conference and the day of world peace will be hastened.

HOLDING THE RUDDER

Seneca, the old Roman, said: "O Neptune, thou canst save me if thou wilt, or thou canst drown me. But whether or not, I will hold my rudder true."

We fear some creatures waste so much nerve power in worrying about what is going to become of us. Once make up minds to hold the rudder hard and true, we may be saved or drowned—and in the long run that's nothing to fret about.

SCALE

Our scale of personality, our rank among souls, depends on the breadth of our interests and on our vision. In William De Witt Hyde's most useful book, "The Five Great Philosophies of Life," we read this: "Do you wish to know precisely where you stand in the scale of personality? Here is the test. How large a section of this world do you care for, in such a vital, responsible way that you are thinking of its welfare, forming schemes for its improvement, bending your energies towards its advancement?"

"The magnitude of the ends you see and serve is the measure of your personality. Personality is not something you carry around in your spiritual pocket. It is an energy which is no whit larger or smaller than the ends it aims at and the work it does."

TIDES

In an eastern state there is a little river that trickles into the sea. It is unimportant—except in those hours when the tide comes in. Then the little river becomes for a moment mighty. So with lives. We don't amount to much until some kind of spiritual force pours into us. That spiritual force—the tide—is summoned when we make a definite effort to relate ourselves to a great cause, a great movement. And we have the advantage of the river. We have the capacity, if we have the will, for keeping the tide flowing through our lives constantly—not merely at intervals.

CHECKING UP

Let's check up on ourselves and see if we are actively devoted to any large causes, tied up with any going concerns. Or are we just drifting along to a hole in the ground?

HORIZONS

The horizon isn't where the sky comes down. The horizon is the limits of our own look. We set our own boundaries. We have the making of our horizons. We do not have to live in walled-in spaces. The soul of man, if it isn't contracted through fear, can live in the limitless spaces of the universe.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 23.—Seen and heard at Times Square, the crossroads of the world: Fred Fisher, the Jewish boy who wrote "Japsany,"—also "Ireland Must Be Heaven Because My Mother Came From There." A Philadelphia taxicab, probably carrying a "big spender" who thought it'd be fun to run up a $100 charge. "Bleeve me, I told her something, I did! I said, 'You ain't anybody who can talk about anybody I know you.' " An old negro, bent and shuffling, buying the Atlanta Constitution at the out-of-town newsstand. Lew Fields, who now and then teams up again with his old partner, Joe Weber, for a benefit performance. He's now, none of which have comedians nearly as funny as Weber and Fields.

Laurette Taylor, the actress, who still looks as young as she did when she played "Peg o' My Heart." A man selling the Birth Control Review. A woman without stockings. Buter Keaton, seeing the Broadway sights, unrecognized, with Ed Seligson, his director. One taxi-driver trying to jam a rival's vehicle into the curb. "Who'n the blank-blank yuh think yuh are—Lindbergh?" Idle actors. A lot of them are out of jobs because they refused to go on the road after the conclusion of Broadway runs of shows. What've they got against Lexington, Ky., and Dubuque, Ia., and Augusta, Me.?

The Earl of Amherst, who is plain Jeffrey Holmesdale to fellow newspaper reporters. "Harry, you better not let your wife see us." A woman smoking a cigar on the street still attracts attention in New York. A man is riding trunks on a bicycle, oblivious of passing stares. Busy New Yorkers in a little throng, saving at a hawk doing tricks with a dangling paper toy.

The story is being told that Thomas Edison was standing outside his laboratory after the evening dismissal whistle blew. He noticed one of his employees leaving with a loaded brief case. The inventor made inquiries and found the employee was in the habit of taking work home. He was fired. "If you can't do your work in eight hours a day, then the job is too big for you," Edison is quoted as saying.

A beggar arrested in Times Square on the charge of vagrancy was found to have $25,000 in his clothes when he was searched at headquarters. New York visitors who wouldn't think of giving anything to panhandlers back home are carelessly generous when holidaying in the big city.

"I just need a dollar more to get back home," is a favorite plea of a panhandler when he approaches a person he is certain is a newcomer to the big city.

Importance of Being Timely

Two salesmen were trying to sell a certain manufacturer a lot of machinery. The one who finally won the business was the one who had the courage to avoid talking to him about the transaction except when the calendar was exactly right.

He made inquiries, and found that the man's company followed the custom of paying all bills on the tenth of the month. It struck him that a business man is in no mood for spending money in large slices just after writing out checks for the monthly assortment of bills. He wisely made it a point to present his proposition just a few days before the tenth—when his prospect had about recovered from the pain of paying off the previous month's obligations. The man's bank account was then at its highest point. Consequently, the idea of spending money for new equipment seemed less urgent than it had at any other time. Nearly everybody is aware that most firms pay their bills on a certain day each month, but perhaps comparatively few salesmen think to make definite use of so simple a bit of knowledge.

Everybody knows that there is a great psychological advantage in actually seeing or feeling a thing over merely knowing that it is there. For example, you wish to sell a man a piece of land on a paved road, or rather on a piece of road about to be paved.

The contracts for the paving are all let, and the buyer knows this. He has not the slightest doubt that the road will be paved within a specified time; yet he will not pay nearly as much for the land as if he can go and see the work of paving the road actually going on.

It is the same way if you offer winter goods for sale during a warm spell. Buyers know it is certain to be cold again within a short time, and that they must have various articles; but they will pay much more readily, and pay more, if they can see when they step out of the front door and feel the chill air.

A man was trying to sell a house on the east side of the city in which he lived. He had a prospect who was half inclined to buy, but who held off because he was interested in a place on the west side.

This outside man picked up his prospect late one afternoon, in an automobile, and suggested a little pleasure ride over the west side. They headed toward the setting sun, which shone annoyingly in their eyes. The possible house buyer complained of this.

"If you buy over here," said the other man, "you'll have the sun in your eyes every day when driving home, and again the next morning as you drive toward your office."

In that way he sold the place on the east side.

Automobile salesmen long ago discovered that it is unwise to have any kind of tire trouble when showing a new car to a possible buyer. The trouble may be due any fault of either tire or machine, but if a mishap occurs the customer has his attention shifted from the joys of automobiling to its less pleasant side.

THE REAL RESCUE WILL COME LATER

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HAIR GROOMING UP TO DATE

Once upon a time a woman had a comb and she had a brush and she had a mirror, and tucked away in the top drawer of her bureau there was a fat little brown bundle of kid curlers which she tortured her hair into an exaggerated curl that rarely escaped plain "frizziness."

That was hair grooming a decade ago, but ten years change minds and habits, characters and customs, and today, mildness has a set of military brushes (if she is wise), a magnifying mirror (if she is careful), and a permanent wave.

On her bureau there is always a bottle of tonic, and in her bath-room closet the real secrets for her hair beauty are carefully tucked away. What are they? First her shampoo, for all beauty depends most upon absolute cleanliness. The modern woman would no more think of rubbing a cake of soap on her hair than she would of washing it with benzine.

And before we go further into the "intricacies" of modern hair grooming, I want to tell you something about washing your hair.

I have given detached instructions on shampooing a short time ago, and it is not my intention to repeat them here, but the few little points which come to my mind, seem to me worth passing on. When you wash your hair, learn to depend on the strength of your fingers more than you do on the quality of the shampoo. If your hair is greasy, use your fingers to scrub it. Soaking, unless it's by the hour, is not going to remove embedded dirt.

If it won't work with your hands, why expect it to on your scalp? Your scalp needs cleansing just as much as the hair itself does, and surface latherings of soap won't clean your scalp. So after your hair has been wet with warm water, rub your shampoo well into the hair roots, using the tips of your fingers, not the cushioned pads.

Don't be afraid of a little energy. Your scalp is quite sufficiently resistant as it is. All your rubbing won't do anything more than wake it up into healthful animation, and that should be done anyway. It isn't necessary to lather four times. Twice is quite sufficient, but if your hair is very much inclined toward oiliness, three latherings are more effective. You can quickly learn how to manipulate your finger-tips so that the nails won't graze your scalp.

For the woman who likes a soft, loose wave the water wave is excellent, but there must be some tendency toward a natural wave, in the hair, or a water wave will not be successful. You can give your hair a permanent wave at home, but it's an intricate process and I don't particularly advise an amateur to attempt it.

Since women have learned how to protect against the resultant after-dryness, the permanent wave truly becomes a blessing. But don't get a permanent wave unless you're prepared to give your hair the extra stimulus of an occasional hot oil shampoo, and regular applications of a good hair tonic, which you may obtain for either dry or oily hair.

THAT ATONIC ABDOMINAL WALL

Are you getting some vigorous exercise every day?

Unless there is some reason such as an acute inflammation or a bad heart, or tuberculosis, you should be having some regular period of exercise, especially those which bring into play the abdominal and back muscles. Remember that all of the physiological processes are affected by muscular exercise—the respiration, circulation, digestion, excretion and the cell metabolism.

We have had many, many letters from those who have been benefited by our abdominal wall exercises. To add emphasis to this little talk, I'll run one:

"Dear Dr. Lulu: I have learned to count my calories, and thereby reduced my weight from 204 to 150—50 pounds. Your atonic abdominal wall exercises have been afflicted with rheumatism? I was afflicted at any rate, I had a painful lameness. Was obliged to go up the stairs on my hands and feet and down them one at a time, like a child; sometimes had to walk with a cane or chair, anything handy, not counting the suffering. A week of over-indulgence in starches and sweets and other falls

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 21.—By no stretch of the imagination can Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama be considered a presidential possibility.

That is to say, Heflin himself, doesn't claim he can possibly be elected president.

He may, however, get some electoral votes.

A few months ago, quite a number of Dixie's representatives in Washington were predicting confidently that an independent southern Democratic ticket would be put into the field, if Governor Al Smith of New York were nominated at Houston.

Not so many such predictions are being made today.

Isn't it so much that Al's nomination isn't opposed in the same quarters, but there seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of making the best of him, in case it can't be helped.

Nevertheless, an irreconcilable element remains. How strong it is—no one knows.

At all events, I've heard it prophesied in the last few days that Alabama's electoral vote might go to Heflin yet, in preference to Smith. Also that South Carolina's might go to Senator Cole L. Blease.

Insofar as I know, it was the first time Blease's name has been mentioned in connection with the presidency. Heflin has been spoken of quite frequently among politicians to whom his pretty pronounced views—on certain subjects—appear favorably.

Heflin's lead over Blease, as a national character, is natural.

Blease, while undoubtedly one of South Carolina's foremost public men, is comparatively a new-comer in Washington, and as yet not very well known above the Mason-Dixon line.

Heflin, as representative and senator, has been conspicuous on Capitol Hill for a fifth of a century. He has traveled extensively, making many speeches in the north as well as in the south, and has personal acquaintances everywhere.

He has a big following, too. Those who dislike him make a mistake if they think not.

Tom Heflin's a difficult person to estimate dispassionately.

His prejudices are violent to the point of infuriating anyone who happens not to be prejudiced similarly of him, and who takes him seriously when he's on one of his pet phobias.

Yet he has the courage of his convictions, or he wouldn't have the nerve to cram them down the throats of a chamberful of fellow-senators whom he enrages, by the hour at a time, almost to the verge of physical assault.

Agree with him or not—he has personal and punch.

Otherwise he couldn't make so many people so sore. They'd simply ignore him if he hadn't a certain sort of "quality." But they don't. He gets their goat.

The truth is, I think, that Heflin correctly represents in Washington a section in this country which the rest of the United States doesn't at all understand.

It's the purest Anglo-Saxon strain—a strongly nationalistic—not a bit tolerant of foreign influences.

It's puritanical—and doesn't care who knows it.

It has its own ideas of the right way to treat colored folk—very kindly, but as a primitive people, to be handled accordingly.

It's old-fashioned, and glad of it.

It's individualistic and somewhat peculiar, measured according to the northern yardstick—"provincial," in short—and likes it, and means to be.

Heflin's saturated with this sentiment. It's an essential part of him.

He's a bit of his home community set down in Washington. He's truly representative of it, which is right and proper. Suppose he doesn't fit very well into his environment here? He should worry? He didn't come to the national capital to be made over. He came as Alabama's envoy. I'll say I believe he's the real thing.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

JEALOUSY

A lot of people have declared that jealousy makes one unhappy, but in fact, it creates disagreeable situations where there should be none. Jealousy does indeed cause unhappiness. It is a fundamental emotion, like love, but, unlike love, it is usually selfish and unreasonable and defeats its own purpose.

A young man writes that he is in love with a woman a few years older than himself. She has been married twice, but divorced. One day, after they had been going together three or four months, a friend of hers—a man—came to see her. The writer was jealous, he made it impossible for the two to visit, and the woman naturally was angry. They have made up since; she tells him she loves and will marry him, but he asks should he go with others or be true to her, and is there such a thing as one-sided love? Sighed, "A Broken Hearted Lover."

I think you should go with others and try to love someone else. Not because she may not love you but because you do not love her. You have a suspicion, which you do not admit to yourself, that if you have been her fault that her marriages were broken up. If you had trusted her you would have left her to visit with her friend and you would not say she told you lies. You do not really love her. You are infatuated with her. There would be no happiness for you if you married her, unless you learned to believe in her love.

you married her, unless you learned to believe in her love.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I read your Living and Loving column and appreciate it very much. I am in love with a certain young man, but I know he loves another girl. Please advise me what I should do. Should I give him up or try to win his love? I don't understand the thing, but I know I love him. I don't understand this word 'petting.' When you admire and like a young man, should you invite him to parties and social gatherings of young people? In what ways do young men show their love for girls? What do men most admire in women?"

"Blue Eyed Sally." It doesn't sound sporting to me to try to win a young man away from a girl he loves better than you. Petting, as generally accepted, is hugging, kissing, etc. Don't invite a man to parties unless he has first shown by his actions that he wants your company. Girls bore young men very much that way. ## Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

The Wide-Awake Nestlings

Then suddenly, just as Peter was about to step upon a ledge, Peter stopped. "What if I would scare the birds. What if he should frighten them so badly one of them would fall out of the nest! He couldn't come upon them suddenly in the dark. They might take him for a robber. Then, perhaps, the father and mother would peck out his eyes."

He had better wait a little while until it grew a bit lighter and then ask the Swifts if he might come up.

In the meantime, though, he might as well stay where he was. The birds were still whispering and he could hear what they said.

Besides, there was no use in his going back to bed up there. He might fall and when he woke again, he would be too late. For a moment while Peter waited at the bottom of the chimney there was silence.

The boy wondered if the birds had gone to sleep. Then the whispering began again.

"But mother," twittered Chirpy, "why can't I get up? There are no longer little holes in the sky. Even the yellow ball has sailed out of sight. It is growing lighter. Dawn is coming. I know it is. Soon the bright fire will come out to make us warm."

"Stilly little nestling. Haven't I told you those are not holes in the sky at all, but stars, and the yellow ball is called a moon? Try and remember that, dear, for it would be a shame if the son of a Chimney Swift should fly out into the world without knowing the names of all he sees. The other birds might think he had not been taught at home." Mother Swift was fond but firm.

"Well, if little brother is going to keep on talking none of the rest of us can sleep, so we might as well make up our minds to stay awake until daybreak. I do believe he was right though, mother. There is a streak of light in the sky, after all," another nestling spoke in a sleepy, grumbling tone.

"Son is right. Dawn is breaking," Father Swift broke in suddenly. "Come, children, as long as you are awake you may as well take your heads from under your wings and watch the sunrise. You may not have another good chance before you are grown up. See how bright it is growing. That peck out his eyes. By and by it will be light enough for your mother and me to go a-hunting."

Peter twisted his head and peered up the chimney. Sure enough, through the opening at the top he could see a patch of pinky gray sky. "What if they fly before I get up there?" thought he, and called:

"Oh, please don't go a-hunting before I have talked to you."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PATH OF THE JUST—The path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. The way of the wicked is as darkness; they know not at what they stumble.—Prov. 4:18, 19.

AN EXPENSIVE PROJECT

It is impossible to figure what Muscle Shoals has cost the taxpayers. Few persons know just how many years it has been kicked around Congress. If anyone tried to figure up the time which the paid servants of the American people in the House of Representatives and the Senate have wasted on this question, the value of the lost time charged against the public payroll would be astounding.

For political purposes Muscle Shoals has been magnified into a national issue, when in reality it is just one ordinary power project similar to many which are built and operated by private companies all over the United States.

Muscle Shoals is a typical example of what happens to an industry which becomes bogged in the quagmire of politics—the taxpayers lose, the country loses and private development is discouraged with resulting loss and detriment to territory affected.

THE CLEVELAND CONFERENCE

President Coolidge has issued a challenge to the men and women of the United States who are interested in the cause of peace. "It is for the generation which saw and survived (the World War) to devise methods of prevention," he said. "If we fail in this, we shall deserve all the disaster which will surely be visited upon us, because of our failure."

It is absolutely essential that some alternative to war shall be found if civilization is to survive.

The American Peace society, which celebrates its centennial in Cleveland in May, has taken up the challenge of the President on behalf of its members and of the friends of world peace. It is now planning a great gathering of the leading statesmen of the world and of interested men and women from all over the nation to discuss in open meeting the methods which may bring peace to the world.

Those things upon which there can be concerted public action will be outlined, so that public opinion may be brought to bear upon a rational peace among nations, based upon international justice.

Just how firmly the President is in accord with the program of the Centennial Celebration of the American Peace society and this great conference on international justice which it will direct is seen from the fact that he has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the national committee for the anniversary celebration. A number of citizens from this county serve on the Ohio committee.

It is an opportunity of a life time for the serious-minded of America to have a part in this great movement looking toward world peace.

The eyes of the world will be focused upon the conference and the day of world peace will be hastened.

HOLDING THE RUDDER

Seneca, the old Roman, said: "O Neptune, thou canst save me if thou wilt, or thou canst drown me. But whether or not, I will hold my rudder true."

We fearsome creatures waste so much nerve power in worrying about what is going to become of us. Once make up minds to hold the rudder hard and true, we may be saved or drowned—and in the long run that's nothing to fret about.

SCALE

Our scale of personality, our rank among souls, depends on the breadth of our interests and on our vision. In William De Witt Hyde's most useful book, "The Five Great Philosophies of Life," we read this: "Do you wish to know precisely where you stand in the scale of personality? Here is the test. How large a section of this world do you care for, in such a vital, responsible way that you are thinking of its welfare, forming schemes for its improvement, bending your energies towards its advancement?"

"The magnitude of the ends you see and serve is the measure of your personality. Personality is not something you carry around in your spiritual pocket. It is an energy which is no whit larger or smaller than the ends it aims at and the work it does."

TIDES

In an eastern state there is a little river that trickles into the sea. It is unimportant—except in those hours when the tide comes in. Then the little river becomes for a moment mighty. So with lives. We don't amount to much until some mind of spiritual force pours into us. That spiritual force—the tide—is summoned when we make a definite effort to relate ourselves to a great cause, a great movement. And we have the advantage of the river. We have the capacity, if we have the will, for keeping the tide flowing through our lives constantly—not merely at intervals.

CHECKING UP

Let's check up on ourselves and see if we are actively devoted to any large causes, tied up with any going concerns. Or are we just drifting along to a hole in the ground?

HORIZONS

The horizon isn't where the sky comes down. The horizon is the limits of our own look. We set our own boundaries. We have the making of our horizons. We do not have to live in walled-in spaces. The soul of man, if it isn't contracted through fear, can live in the limitless spaces of the universe.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 23.—Seen and heard at Times Square, the crossroads of the world:

Fred Fisher, the Jewish boy who wrote "Japsansy," also "Ireland Must Be Heaven Because My Mother Came From There." A Philadelphia taxicab, probably carrying a "big spender" who thought it'd be fun to run up a $100 charge. "Bleeve me, I told her something, I did! I said, 'You ain't anybody who can talk about anybody! I know you.' An old negro, bent and shuffling, buying the Atlanta Constitution at the out-of-town newsstand. Lew Fields, who now and then teams up again with his old partner, Joe Weber, for a benefit performance. He's now a producer of musical comedies, none of which have comedians nearly as funny as Weber and Fields.

Laurette Taylor, the actress, who still looks as young as she did when she played "Peg of My Heart." A man selling the Birth Control Review. A woman without stockings. Buter Keaton, seeing the Broadway sights, unrecognized, with Ed Sedgewick, his director. One taxi-driver trying to jam a rival's vehicle into the curb. "Who's the black-blank yuh think you are—Lindbergh?" Idle actors. A lot of them are out of jobs because they refused to go on the road after the conclusion of "Broadway runs of shows. What've they got against Lexington, Ky., and Dubuque, Ia., and Augusta, Me.?"

The Earl of Amherst, who is plain Jeffrey Holmesdale to fellow newspaper reporters. "Harry, you better not let your wife see us." A woman smoking a cigarette on the street still attracts attention in New York. A man is riding trunks on a bicycle, oblivious of passing stares. Busy New Yorkers in a little throng, gazing at a hawkie doing tricks with a dangling paper toy.

The story is being told that Thomas Edison was standing outside his laboratory after the evening dismissal whistle blew. He noticed one of his employees leaving with a loaded brief case. The inventor made inquiries and found the employee was in the habit of taking work home. He was fired. "If you can't do your work in eight hours a day, then the job is too big for you," Edison is quoted as saying.

A beggar arrested in Times Square on the charge of vagrancy had to have $25,000 in his clothing when he was searched at police headquarters. New York visitors who wouldn't think of giving anything to panhandlers back home are carelessly generous when holidaying in the big city.

"I just saved a dollar more to get back home," is a favorite plea of a panhandler when he approaches a person he is certain is a newcomer to the big city.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Importance of Being Tidy

Two salesmen were trying to sell a certain manufacturer a lot of machinery. The one who finally sold him did so because he had the forethought to avoid talking to him about the transaction except when the calendar was exactly right.

He made inquiries, and found that the man's company followed the custom of paying all bills on the tenth of the month. It struck him that a business man is in no mood for spending money in large slices just after writing out checks for the monthly assortment of bills. He wisely made it a point to present his proposition just a few days before the tenth—when his prospect had about recovered from the pain of paying off the previous month's obligations. The man's bank account was at its highest point. Consequently, the idea of spending money for new equipment seemed less repugnant than at any other time.

Nearly everybody is aware that most firms pay their bills on a certain day each month, but perhaps comparatively few salesmen think to make definite use of so simple a bit of knowledge.

Everybody knows that there is a great psychological advantage in actually seeing or feeling a thing is there. For example, to sell a man a piece of land on a paved road, or rather on a piece of road about to be paved.

The contractors for the paving are all set, and the buyer knows this. He hesitates, but the slightest doubt that the road will be paved within a specified time; yet he will not pay nearly as much for the land as if he can go and see the work of paving the road actually going on.

It is the same way if you offer winter goods for sale, during a warm spell. Buyers know it is certain to be cold again within a short time, and that they must have various articles; but they buy much more readily, and pay more, if need be, when they can see the goods in the front door and feel the chill air.

A man was trying to sell a house on the east side of the city in which he lived. He had a prospect who was half inclined to buy, but who held off because he was interested in a place on the west side. This estate man picked up his prospect late one afternoon in an automobile, and suggested a little pleasure ride over the west side. They headed toward the setting sun, which shone amiably in their eyes. The possible house buyer complained of this.

"If you buy over here," said the other man, "you'll have the sun in your eyes every day when driving home, and again the next morning as you drive toward your office."

In that way he sold the place on

THE REAL RESCUE WILL COME LATER

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HAIR GROOMING UP TO DATE

Once upon a time a woman had a comb and she had a brush and she had a mirror, and tucked away in the top drawer of her bureau there was a fat little brown bundle of kid curlers with which she tortured her hair into an exaggerated curl, a curl that rarely escaped plain "frizziness."

That was hair grooming a decade ago, but ten years change minds and habits, characters and customs, and today, mildness has a set of military brushes (if she is wise), a magnifying mirror (if she is careful), and a permanent wave.

On her bureau there is always a bottle of tonic, and in her bathroom closet the real secrets to her hair beauty are carefully tucked away. What are they? First her shampoo, for all beauty depends most upon absolute cleanliness. The modern woman would no more think of rubbing a cake of soap on her hair than she would of washing it with benzine.

And before we go further into the "intricacies" of modern hair grooming, I want to tell you something about washing your hair.

I have given detached instructions on shampooing a short time ago, and it is not my intention to repeat them here, but the few little points which came to my mind, seem to me worth passing on. When you wash your hair, learn to depend on the strength of your fingers more than you do on the quality of the shampoo. If your hands are dirty you scrub them. Soaking, unless it's by the hour, is not going to remove embedded dirt. If it won't work with your hands, why expect it to on your hair? Your scalp needs cleansing just as much as the hair itself does, and surface latherings of soap won't clean your scalp. So after your hair has been wet with warm water, rub your shampoo well into the hair roots, using the tips of your fingers, not the cushioned pads.

Don't be afraid of a little energy. Your scalp is quite sufficiently resistant as it is. All your rubbing won't do anything more than wake it up into healthful animation, and that should be done anyway. It isn't necessary to lather or four times. Twice is quite sufficient, but if your hair is very much inclined toward oiliness, three latherings are more effective. You can quickly learn how to manipulate your finger-tips so that the nails won't graze your scalp.

For the woman who likes a soft, loose wave the water wave is excellent, but there must be some tendency toward a natural wave, in the hair, or a water wave will not be successful. You can give yourself a water wave at home, but it's an intricate process and I don't particularly advise an amateur to attempt it.

Since women have learned how to protect against the resultant after dryness, the permanent wave has truly become a blessing. But don't get a permanent wave unless you're prepared to give your hair the extra stimulus of an occasional hot oil shampoo, and regular applications of a good hair tonic, which you may obtain for either dry or oily hair.

THAT ATONIC ABDOMINAL WALL

Are you getting some vigorous exercise every day?

Unless there is some reason such as an acute inflammation or a bad heart, or tuberculosis, you should be having some regular period of exercise, especially those which bring into play the abdominal and back muscles. Remember that all of the physiological processes are affected by muscular exercise—the respiration, circulation, digestion, excretion and the cell metabolism.

We have had many, many letters from those who have been benefited by our abdominal wall exercises. To add emphasis to this little talk, I'll run one.

"Dear Dr. Lulu: I have learned to count my calories, and thereby reduced my weight from 204 to 150—50 pounds. Your atonic abdominal wall exercises have been especially beneficial. I was afflicted with rheumatism 2 1/2 years. At any rate, I had a painful lameness. Was obliged to go up the stairs on my hands and feet and down them one at a time, like a cane or chair, anything handy, not counting the suffering. A week of over-indulgence in starches and sweets and other falls the east side.

Automobile salesmen long ago discovered that it is unwise to have any kind of the trouble when showing a new car to a possible buyer. The trouble may be due to running over a nail and not to any fault of either tire or machine; but if a mishap occurs the customer has his attention shifted from the joys of automobiling to its less pleasant side.

from grace, and I have some twinges. Another trouble was constipation which was entirely removed when I faithfully carried on the exercises. This is what you have done for a 60-year old woman.

"Mrs. R."

The first comment I want to make on your letter, Mrs. R., is that I want you to stop calling yourself an old woman. Don't you know that men and women don't get old at 60 any more? You certainly have proved that you have the energy and stamina of a young person. Thank you for your inspiration.

Overweight is not infrequently accompanied by rheumatic pains in the muscles and neuritis (inflammation of the nerves) as well as many other disorders. It has been noticed in recent years that there is a certain type of muscular rheumatism and arthritis (inflammation of the joints) frequently associated with a high blood sugar (normal). This increase in the blood sugar can come from excess starches and sugars in the diet, as well as from disordered pancreases, as it does in diabetes. Thus in your case, Mrs. R., it was probably your correct exercise, and a most wholesome one, for you get your fresh air and sunshine.

Eggs in Bacon Rings—Fry bacon until well done. Take strips while they are still warm and bend easily and fit each well down around the wall of the muffin ring. If necessary, grease the bottom of ring with more bacon grease. Break one egg into each cup. Then set muffin pan in a larger pan of water heated to the simmering point. Cover and let stand until eggs are well set. Remove eggs carefully; each will have a ring of bacon about it.

Liquor Cure

Mrs. B. It was not in my column that you saw the prescription for the liquor cure.

Drinkers are treated in hospitals, but the treatment is rather drastic and must have the co-operation of the patients. It is not always successful because so much depends upon the character of the patient.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 24.—By no stretch of the imagination can Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama be considered a presidential possibility.

That is to say, Heflin himself, doesn't claim he can possibly be elected president.

He may, however, get some electoral votes.

A few months ago, quite a number of Dixie's representatives in Washington were predicting confidently that an independent southern Democratic ticket would be put into the field, if Governor Al Smith of New York were nominated at Houston.

Not so many such predictions are being made today.

It isn't so much that Al's nomination isn't opposed in the same quarters, but there seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of making the best of him, in case it can't be helped.

Nevertheless, an irreconcilable element remains. How strong it is—who knows?

At all events, I've heard it prophesied in the last few days that Alabama's electoral vote might go to Heflin yet, in preference to Smith. Also that South Carolina's might go to Senator Cole L. Blease.

Insofar as I know, it was the first time Blease's name has been mentioned in connection with the presidency. Heflin has been spoken of quite frequently among politicians to whom his pretty pronounced views—on certain subjects—appear favorably.

Heflin's lead over Blease, as a national character, is natural.

Blease, while undoubtedly one of South Carolina's foremost public men, is comparatively a newcomer in Washington, and as yet not very well known above the Mason-Dixon line.

Heflin, as representative and senator, has been conspicuous on Capitol Hill for a fifth of a century. He has traveled extensively, making many speeches in the north as well as in the south, and has personal acquaintances everywhere.

He has a big following, too. Those who dislike him make a mistake if they think of him as a Tom Heflin's difficult person to estimate dispassionately.

His prejudices are violent to the point of infuriating anyone who happens not to be prejudiced similarly, and who takes him seriously when he's on one of his pet phobias.

Yet he has the courage of his convictions, or he wouldn't have the nerve to cram them down the throats of a chamberful of fellow-senators whom he enrages, by the hour at a time, almost to the verge of physical assault.

Agree with him or not—he has personality and punch.

Otherwise he couldn't make so many people so sore. They'd simply ignore him if he hadn't a certain sort of "quality." But they don't. He gets their goat.

The truth is, I think, that Heflin correctly represents in Washington a section in this country which the rest of the United States doesn't at all understand.

It's of the purest Anglo-Saxon strain—strongly nationalistic—not a bit tolerant of foreign influences.

It's puritanical—and doesn't care who knows it.

It has its own ideas of the right way to treat colored folk—kindly, but as a primitive people, to be handled accordingly.

It's individualistic and somewhat peculiar, measured according to the northern yardstick—"provincial," in short—and likes it, and means to be.

Heflin's saturated with this sentiment. It's an essential part of him.

He's a bit of his home community set down in Washington. He's truly representative of it, which is right and proper. Suppose he doesn't fit very well into his environment here? What is he to do? He didn't come to the national capital to be made over. He came as Alabama's envoy. I'll say I believe he's the real thing.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

JEALOUSY

A lot of people have declared that jealousy is more unhappy than infidelity, and in fact, creates disagreeable situations where there should be none. Jealousy does indeed cause unhappiness. It is a fundamental emotion, like love, but, unlike love, it is usually selfish and unreasonable and defeats its own purpose.

A young man writes that he is in love with a woman a few years older than himself. She has been married twice, but divorced. One day, after they had been going together three or four months, a friend of hers—a man—came to see her. The writer was so jealous he made it impossible for the two to visit, and the woman naturally was angry. They have made up since; she tells him she loves and trusts him, but he asks should he go with others or be true to her, and is there such a thing as one-sided love? Signed, "A Broken Hearted Lover."

I think you should go with others and try to love someone else. Not because she may not love you but because you do not trust her. You have a suspicion, which you do not admit to yourself, that it may have been her fault that her marriages were broken up. If you had trusted her you would have left her to visit with her friend and you would not say she told you lies. You do not really love her. You are infatuated with her. There would be no happiness for you if you married her, unless you learned to believe in her love.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I read your Living and Loving column and appreciate it very much. I am in love with a certain young man, but I know he loves another girl. Please advise me what I should do. Should I give him up or try to win his love? I don't understand what is meant by this word 'petting.' When you admire and like a young man, should you invite him to parties and social gatherings of young people? In what ways do young men show their love for girls? What do men most admire in women?"

"Blue Eyed Sally."

It doesn't sound sporting to me to try to win a young man away from a girl he loves better than you. Petting, as generally accepted, is hugging, kissing, etc. Don't invite a man to parties unless he has first shown by his actions that he wants your company. Girls bore young men very much that way. Men show their love for girls by words and actions. Usually there is no mistaking the symptoms. Men admire women's looks more than anything else, according to their general conversation. According to their actions every man likes a different type, but the most popular girls are jolly, unaffected and good pals.

DAYTON BOWLERS IN PROMINENT PLACES OF MAPLE STANDING

Visitors Threaten To Capture Most Of Pin Honors

Dayton bowlers are threatening to carry off most of the prize money in the bowling tournament in progress at the Recreation Parlors, sponsored by Xenia merchants.

To date, Dayton teams hold second and fourth places in the five-man division. In the minor events, the Gem City pinsters occupy first, third, fourth and fifth positions in the doubles; first, second, third and fourth places in the singles; and first, third and fourth positions in all events.

A Dayton bowler is also tied with a Xenia man for high single game.

No a Xenia minerite artist is listed among the five leaders in the singles, doubles and all-events. However, a Xenia quinter is leading the five-man division. The same team has the record high single game, and a local bowler is tied for high individual single game.

Following is the tournament standing:

XENIA QUOT CLUB WILL RE-ORGANIZE

Annual re-organization meeting of the Xenia Quoit Club will be held at the home of the president, James E. Hughes, 7 1/2 W. Main St., at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, it is announced.

Officers will be elected for the coming year and it will also be determined at this meeting whether the local quoit club will continue its membership in the Miami Valley Quoit League.

WILL ASK CLUBS TO CO-OPERATE IN GETTING NAMES, ADDRESSES

Plans for obtaining co-operation of various clubs and organizations in procuring a list of names and addresses of former residents of the county, in connection with the 1928 Greene County Home-Coming, were discussed by the "key" committee appointed for this purpose at a dinner-meeting at the Frances Inn Monday night.

The various suggestions are to be submitted by Dr. B. R. McClellan, chairman, at the weekly meeting of the Home-Coming executive committee Monday night.

All organized groups are to be asked to draw up a complete list of names and addresses of former members in order that they may be formally invited to attend the affair.

It is also planned to form similar Home-Coming committees in every village in the county.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE CUT DOWN BY EPIDEMIC OF DISEASE HERE

More than 130 pupils in the Xenia city schools were confined to their homes Monday suffering from an epidemic of colds, grip and a mild form of influenza, it was estimated by Mrs. Agnes M. Hurley, attendance officer in the public schools. No cases are serious.

The greatest number of absentees reported for any single day during the present school term.

The epidemic also struck the S. and S. O. Home last week, sending between 140 and 150 children and employees to bed with colds and the "flu." None of the cases were of a serious nature and a majority have recovered after a few days of treatment and confinement.

The hospital was crowded to its capacity—about thirty or forty—and the rest of the sufferers were placed in beds in the cottages.

The epidemic broke out originally among the boys and was at first confined to them. Later, however, it has begun to spread to the girls.

A survey revealed that at the Central High School building alone, eighty-two students were afflicted with grip.

On one day last week, seventy-one pupils at the McKinley grade building failed to attend school because of illness, but this number was reduced to forty Monday.

Many children recovered after a brief period of confinement indoors.

Prevalence of mumps and chicken pox is noticeable at the East High and Lincoln schools, rather than colds and grip. About thirty pupils in these schools are suffering from the diseases.

The sick list at the Spring Hill and Orient Hill grade schools is not so great because of a smaller enrollment, it is announced.

ARREST YOUTHS IN CHILLICOTHE FOR AUTO THEFT HERE

Theft of a Nash touring car, 1922 model, from the Xenia Motor Sales Co., 121 S. Detroit St., last Friday, is believed to have been solved with the reported arrest of two Ironton, O. youths at Chillicothe, Sunday.

Police learned that two boys, giving their names as Walter Moore, 18, and Glen Courtney, 21, both of Ironton, O., are under arrest in that city. The stolen auto, bearing a dealer's license, is said to have been found in their possession.

Patrolman Fred Jones, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff George Sugden and Driver Belden, auto club secretary, went to Chillicothe Monday to return the pair to Xenia.

The youths are also believed by Police Chief M. E. Graham to have stolen New York license plates from an auto owned by W. J. Wippenman, this city, parked in front of his apartments on W. Main St. last week.

They obtained possession of the Nash car on the pretext they were prospective customers and wished to try it out before buying.

AMERICAN BREAKS AUTO SPEED RECORD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 23.—With a new world's speed record set by Ray Keech, Philadelphia driver of the huge white Triplex Special in its sensational run yesterday against time, sportsmen today awaited the results of Frank Lockhart's try in his Stutz Black Hawk.

If Lockhart succeeds in breaking Keech's record, the latter said today, he would try again. Keech bettered the old record of 206.95 established by Major Malcolm Campbell of England, here in February, by six-tenths of a mile. The huge Triplex averaged 207.552.60 miles per hour in its run with and against the wind.

Sport Ritticisms BY BILL RITT

An old proverb says that going around in a circle brings one nowhere. But the big league ball clubs make a lot of money at it.

When a college boy writes home these days that he is rising rapidly it might only mean that he's joined the pole vault team.

The trouble with most janitors is that they lean so hard on a broom they can't push it.

It has been said that Tom Heeney trains on ale. Britishers call that a fib. In America it would be a boast.

The office stenog has dropped her baseball sweetie because he admitted he played second base. "When a man gets strong with me," she says, "he's either first or absent."

Now that Urban Shocker, Yankee pitcher, has quit radio and aviation to play baseball again those two businesses will probably sink back to the low level they occupied before he became interested in them.

THREE INJURED IN DANCE HALL MELEE

CLEVELAND, O., April 23.—John Gorsek, 23, was reported in a dying condition in a Cleveland hospital today, from a bullet wound in his abdomen, the result of a dance hall melee last night during which Philip Bova, a special policeman, was severely beaten and another youth was injured.

Gorsek was shot when Bova, overpowered and momentarily dazed by blows, is alleged to have fired to scatter his assailants.

John Legan, 24, suffered a broken nose and fractured jaw.

The trouble is said to have started when Bova requested a youth, alleged to have annoyed a young girl, to leave the hall.

SOFT CORNS

Moone's Emerald Oil Must Do Away With All Soreness and Pain Or Money Back.

"Get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil with the understanding that if it does not put an end to the pain and soreness your money will be promptly returned."

Don't worry about how long you've had it or how many other preparations you have tried. This powerful penetrating oil is one preparation that will help to make your painful aching feet so healthy and free from corn and bunions soreness that you'll be able to go anywhere and do anything in absolute foot comfort.

So marvelously powerful is Moone's Emerald Oil that thousands have found it gives wonderful results in the treatment of dangerous swollen or varicose veins. Sayre's Drug Store is selling lots of it.

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Mrs. Claude Bales, N. Detroit St., received injuries to her right elbow and was hurt internally, when the auto driven by Mr. Bales, was struck by another car, in Dayton, Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bales were enroute to Dunkirk, Ind., for a visit when the accident happened. Mr. Bales was unhurt. Two doors on the auto were damaged.

KOPPERS MIAMI COKE
Genuine
"Clean as the Sun's Heat"

Here is Better Fuel for Miami Valley Homes; Light, Clean, Efficient Fuel That is Practically All Heat. Your Dealer Can Now Supply You With Koppers Miami Coke

What IS Koppers Miami Coke?

It is coal in its utmost refinement; best West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky coals, cleaned of slate and other impurities, baked at high heat in air-tight ovens. Koppers coking process drives off all soot and smoke making matter, retaining the fixed carbon of coal, which is all heat and burns with glowing flame.

The coking process develops cell or pores, which make Koppers Miami Coke most responsive to draft control. One firing lasts all night; a morning firing lasts all day, except in extreme cold; then a little further attention may be needed.

You can bid farewell to heavy wasteful fuel; to contaminating soot, smoke and dirt; to grimy walls, dusty floors, soiled curtains. Your house can be warm-clean and you can be fuel-happy with little work, no trouble, less expense!

Koppers Miami Coke fits all extremes of weather. On freezing winter days, you can make it glow with high heat; in mild weather you can check it to a smolder; or burn it at any intermediate speed.

Koppers Miami Coke comes in all sizes—egg, furnace, chestnut, pea. Use it in steam and water boilers, furnaces, stoves, ranges, grates.

Now is the time to fill your bin. Know the comfort of it—the cleanliness—the saving of work, time and money. Order today.

RAIN PREVENTS RESERVES FROM • OPENING SEASON HERE SUNDAY

Rain came between the Xenia Reserves and Wilmington Hawks and their hope of staging the inaugural baseball game of the season Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

The continuous rain of Saturday and Sunday morning converted the playing field into something more suitable for canoeing than baseball, and inasmuch as the national pastime has not advanced to a stage where it can be played

DAYTON BOWLERS IN PROMINENT PLACES OF MAPLE STANDING

Visitors Threaten To Capture Most Of Pin Honors

Dayton bowlers are threatening to carry off most of the prize money in the bowling tournament in progress at Xenia merchants.

To date, Dayton teams hold second and fourth places in the five-man division. In the minor events, the Gen City pinsters occupy first, third, fourth and fifth positions in the doubles; first, second, third and fourth places in the singles; first, third and fourth positions in all-events.

A Dayton bowler is also tied with a Xenia man for high single game. No a Xenia mineralite artist is listed among the five leaders in the singles, doubles and all-events. However, a Xenia quintet is leading the five-man division. The same team has the record high team single game, and a local team is tied for high individual single game.

LONDON, April 23.—Captain Malcolm Campbell, whose record of 206.95 miles an hour was broken when Ray Keck, in his thirty-six cylinder "Triplex," raised the world's speed record to 207.6 miles an hour at Daytona Beach yesterday, today sent a cable of congratulations to Keck.

At the same time Campbell announced he intended to make another attempt to better the world's record.

Comic Artists Honor McManus at New York

Seated left to right are Col. G. T. Vishniskii, Walter Hoban, George McManus, Tom Powers and Gene Carr. Standing left to right are Jimmy Murphy, Jack Callahan, "Chic" Young, Rube Goldberg, Russ Westover, Harry Hershfield, H. H. Knerr, Ad Carter, J. D. Gortowsky, Miller, Verdier, George Finley and J. V. Connolly, toastmaster. The table was beautifully decorated with flowers. Mr. Miller, manager of the Warwick, personally supervised the affair, which delighted the artists, and particularly the guest of honor, Tom Powers, Harry Hershfield, H. H. Knerr and J. V. Connolly.

PICKED 'AS WORLD'S MOST ILLUSTRIOUS WOMEN

Among the women voted by Paris as the most illustrious, one American is with the first ten, Ruth Elder, upper right, whose daring caught the imagination of the French public. Madame Curie, center, co-discoverer of radium, ranks first; Sarah Bernhardt, upper left, even in death, second; Edith Cavell, executed English nurse, third, and Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, fourth.

WHERE THE EYES OF THE WORLD ARE FOCUSED

At top a slice of the tiny Gretna Green Island that is the haven of the German-Irish trio of trans-Atlantic fliers; lower left, lighthouse at Point Amour, the nearest point to the island where the aviators landed; lower right, the native dog sleds of Gretna Green Island that were used to carry messages from the stranded fliers to the nearest radio station; center inset, 18-year-old Stewart Davis of Manchester, N. H., amateur radio operator, who received and relayed to the waiting world the first message from the three intrepid airmen.

Death His Penalty

Clyde Beale, held at Williamson, W. Va., has been sentenced to be hanged for the murder, two years ago, at Vulcan, W. Va., of Mrs. Bessie Perdue. A half-brother of Beale's also was charged with the crime, but was declared not guilty.

Jap Rotary Envoy

Noboru Ohtani, leader in Japanese industry, has come to the United States as envoy of the Rotary clubs of Japan to invite American participation in the second Pacific Rotary conference to be held in Tokyo next October. He is also to attend the international conference in St. Paul, Minn., in June. Ohtani is shown on his arrival in San Francisco.

Guild Protege

Vina Delmar, 23, of New York, whose first novel, a story of Harlem, is to be printed by the Literary Guild of America, is the most youthful protege of the organization.

SCIENCE JOINS WITH ADVENTURE IN NORTH POLE FLIGHT

An ultra sensitive daylight recorder developed by Dr. L. R. Keller, an American, will be used by General Umberto Nobile, an Italian, to measure light when he soars through the Polar regions in his dirigible. The "Italia" (right) now en route to its northern mission, is shown as it appeared when nearing Ciampino, Italy. General Nobile, at upper left; the light device, top center. Lower left shows one of the powerful motors.

Tragedy Ends All

Death has ended the romance of two persons caught in the blast that destroyed a dance hall at West Plains, Mo. Mrs. Kitty McFarland, above, undertaker, and Major Robert Mullins, World war veteran, killed while dancing together, were to have been married within a week.

Host to Fliers

Here is Eddy Tompkins, keeper of the lonely Gretna Green Island lighthouse, who was host to the three stranded German-Irish air heroes.

TRICKS OF THE SILVER SHEET EXPOSED

Girls if you want to make good in the movies, you'll have to be as good as Janet Gaynor in displaying your emotions. She, of all the young stars, is particularly adept in the art. She gives you a lesson here in the five principal expressions. Upper left to right, Fear, with a big "F"; Happiness, the contagious kind, and Sorrow, with heart throbs. Lower left is Relief, which verges into happiness, and right is the greatest of all, Love, pure and true.

MURDER FOR LOVE ROBS BOYS OF MOTHER

Arthur Antoine (upper left) awaits trial in Oakland, California, for the confessed murder of his wife with a sledge hammer. In order that he might marry Lila Stoval, eighteen (upper right) Antoine did away with his wife, Ida, and cast her body in the bay from Carquinez Bridge, 22 miles from his home. His motherless sons are Ronald, nine, and Kenneth, eleven (lower right). The death weapon is shown at left.

Merit Only Sure Method
When Women Want to Win

MRS. RUTH H. MCCORMICK MRS. FLORENCE KAHN
(International Illustrated News)

ENTRANCE INTO POLI-TICS NEEDS MORE
"THAN GOOD LOOKS"

By SHIRLEY KIRKE
(International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent)

If you intend running for a political office, whether Congress or village trustees—and you are a female—keep sex appeal out of your campaign.

That, according to Mrs. Florence Kahn of California, is the moral emanating from the recent Illinois primaries.

"Women should always campaign as persons—not women."
"I have always refused to recognize sex in politics, and I find that both men and women resent any other attitude."

"Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's smashing victory in Illinois is eloquent testimony to the value of this principle.

"If Mrs. McCormick had appealed for support solely as a woman she probably would have lost."

So that's that, and right from the top of the feminine political ladder:
Forget your skirts and sex, and the old last argument used with brothers in tussles, sports and debates: "Well, you ought to win.
You are a boy."

Perhaps it will be suggested by some militant suffragette (how ancient that term sounds!) that punishment should be meted out to females who violate this code.

The whole situation is this, since the right of women to mix in politics is definitely recognized, the original suggestion that good looks would win a campaign is now found groundless.

Women are bringing a rare use of intelligence and initiative into their campaigns and into the administration of their duties after election.

Women are making good in politics on their own very good sense, not entirely on their looks.

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother deserted them, and that all women have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man.
David away on a trip.

Lynda's father, too, deserts her,
and Claire Stanhope comes to live with her. Claire tells of innocent love for Fred Blake, a married man. Lynda comes home one day to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.

June Challer, who has annexed money, invites Lynda and Claire and Emily Andrews to a big party.
It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthralled. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting that he come home for the party, so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl."

Ralph has met with an accident, and Lynda goes to his home to take dictation. He's holding her hand when Hal Galbraith enters.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXVIII
HAL KNOWS WHEN HE IS WANTED

Hal Galbraith thought he understood the situation perfectly. Ar-mitage evidently was off with Pamela Sheston, and was trying to get on with Lynda Fenton.

"Well," he said, "I'm truly glad, old man, it's no worse than it is,
and I just wanted you to know that if you wished for anything that I could do, you had only to call me."
Then rising, he asked: "Can I do any little errand for you today?"

"The only thing you can do, Hal, is to keep that woman away from my house. Miss Fenton will answer my letters and telephone calls for a day or two from the office, but I expect to get down there myself, at the latest, by day after tomorrow."

The maid was wheeling in a tea-cart that could be made into a small table.

"Won't you stay for lunch, Hal?
I'm sure Miss Fenton will play hostess for us."

Hal Galbraith knew when he was not wanted, and he answered:
"No thanks, old man, I must be toddling along."

Ralph Armitage's left arm shot out toward his friend—he was glad to speed the parting guest—although he winced in pain at the effort.

"Come again, soon, won't you?
And tell all the boys and girls that I am not so badly hurt that I will not be at June Challer's party."

"There, I'm glad he's gone!" he exclaimed, as Hal Galbraith left the room. "He's a good chap, and my best friend, but I can't see why a man who has pretty nearly got himself killed can't amuse himself in his own way, with whom he pleases, while he is recovering."

The maid set the table close to Ralph's bed, and drew a chair for Lynda beside it.

He had to eat slowly with his left hand, while Lynda served him more delicacies than she knew existed.

"Aren't you going to talk to me a little?" he finally asked, as the maid placed the Bar le Duc and Camembert cheese before them.

"I've been wanting to tell you all the morning, Mr. Armitage, how wonderful it was for you to risk your life for a little, unknown child."

"That's nothing. I'd risk it again, gladly, if I were sure I would be rewarded by this luncheon with you. Do you know, I'm silly enough to think that food has never tasted so good before. It has been much better, because you served it, Lynda.

Eating with one's body in a cast, with one's right arm bound to one's side, has its compensation, although you might not think so."

"Don't intimate, Mr. Armitage, that I am a compensation. Why are you so modest? You know that no thought of me passed into your mind when you turned into the ditch yesterday afternoon."

"Why, it was the thought of you that made me oblivious of the child.
I was cursing my fate that I could never say what I wanted to, like an honorable man, when that child ran under the wheels."

"As Emily Andrews would say, if you gave her the chance, I've fallen for you hard, Lynda, and at the present moment I am the happiest man on earth, because that old joker, Fate, has let me live a little longer in a world where I can see you and talk to you, or the most miserable wretch that breathes, for you are like a tantalous cup,
dear—held just beyond by thirsting lips."

"Why did you paint your adorable mouth again today? Here—"
He held out a large handkerchief of exquisite fineness. "Wipe off that grease. It makes me think that I am mistaken in you. It takes you out of a class by yourself, and puts you in with the mob."

Lynda Fenton obediently wiped her lips, leaving a red smear on the handkerchief. Ralph Armitage snatched it from her, and carefully put it into the breast pocket of his wonderful velvet robe that covered his silken pajamas.

Lynda felt her heart beating rapidly, as she caught his caressing eyes bent upon her. She asked herself, was she falling in love, too?
She had forgotten all about David.

"Now bring me my letters, and will you put those pillows about me a little closer?"

Lynda brought the letters, and obediently bowed her lovely head so that he could, by placing his left arm about her neck, draw himself up a little, only to sink back into the pillows with a sigh. Did he leave his arm about her shoulders a little longer than was necessary? She could not tell, and she was a little ashamed for asking herself the question.

"You will find a paper knife on my desk over there. Take all these letters out of the envelopes. Hand them to me, as I call for them."

All but one was disposed of very quickly. Over that one, Ralph bent with deepening brows.

"Do you know, Lynda, in how

Merit Only Sure Method When Women Want to Win

MRS. RUTH H. MCCORMICK MRS. FLORENCE KAHN

(International Illustrated News)

ENTRANCE INTO POLITICS NEEDS MORE THAN GOOD LOOKS

By SHIRLEY KIRKE

(International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent)

If you intend running for a political office, whether Congress or village trustees—and you are a female—keep sex appeal out of your campaign.

That, according to Mrs. Florence Kahn of California, is the moral emanating from the recent Illinois primaries.

"Women should always campaign as persons—not women," she says.

"I have always refused to recognize sex in politics, and I find that both men and women resent any other attitude."

"Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's smashing victory in Illinois is eloquent testimony to the value of this principle."

"If Mrs. McCormick had appealed for support solely as a woman she probably would have lost."

So that's that, and right from the top of the feminine political ladder! Forget your skirts and sex, and the old last argument used with brothers in tussles, sports and debates: "Well, you ought to win. You are a boy."

Perhaps it will be suggested by some militant suffragette (how ancient that term sounds?) that punishment should be meted out to females who violate this code.

The whole situation is this, since the right of women to mix in politics is definitely recognized, the original suggestion that good looks would win a campaign is now found groundless.

Women are bringing a rare use of intelligence and initiative into their campaigns and into the administration of their duties after election.

Women are making good in politics on their own very good sense, not entirely on their looks.

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.

"It was wonderful for you to risk your life for a little unknown child."

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother deserted them, and that all women have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenner, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man. David is away on a trip.

Lynda's father, too, deserts her, and Claire Stanhope comes to live with her. Claire tells of innocent love for Fred Blake, a married man. Lynda comes home one day to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.

June Challer, who has annexed money, invites Lynda and Claire and Emily Andrews to a big party. It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthralled. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting that he come home for the party, so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl."

Ralph has met with an accident, and Lynda goes to his home to take dictation. He's holding her hand when Hal Galbraith enters.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXVIII
HAL KNOWS WHEN HE IS WANTED

Hal Galbraith thought he understood the situation perfectly. Armitage evidently was off with Pamela Shestons, and was trying to get on with Lynda Fenton.

"Well," he said, "I'm truly glad, old man, it's no worse than it is. I just wanted you to know that if you wished for anything that I could do, you had only to call me."

Then rising, he asked: "Can I do any little errand for you today?"

"The only thing you can do, Hal, is to keep that woman away from my house. Miss Fenton will answer my letters and telephone calls for a day or two from the office, but I expect to get down there myself, at the latest, by day after tomorrow."

The maid was wheeling in a teacart that could be made into a small table.

"Won't you stay for lunch, Hal? I'm sure Miss Fenton will play hostess for us."

Hal Galbraith knew when he was not wanted, and he answered: "No thanks, old man. I must be toddling along."

Ralph Armitage's left arm shot out toward his friend—he was glad to speed the parting guest—although he winced in pain at the effort.

"Come again, soon, won't you? And tell all the boys and girls that I am not so badly hurt that I will not be at June Challer's party."

"There, I'm glad he is gone," he exclaimed, as Hal Galbraith left the room. "He's a good chap, and my best friend, but I can't see why a man who has pretty nearly got himself killed can't amuse himself in his own way, with whom he pleases, while he is recovering."

The maid set the table close to Ralph's bed, and drew a chair for Lynda beside it.

He had to eat slowly with his left hand, while Lynda served him more delicacies than she knew existed.

"Aren't you going to talk to me a little?" he finally asked, as the maid placed the Bar le Duc and Camembert cheese before them.

"I've been wanting to tell you all the morning, Mr. Armitage, how wonderful it was for you to risk your life for a little, unknown child."

"That's nothing, I'd risk it again, gladly, if I were sure I would be rewarded by this luncheon with you. Do you know, I'm silly enough to think that food has never tasted so good before. It has been much better, because you served it, Lynda. Eating with one's body in a cast, with one's right arm bound to one's side, has its compensation, although you might not think so."

"Don't intimate, Mr. Armitage, that I am a compensation. Why are you so modest? You know that no thought

Here's a new angle on the increasing protests against American films abroad! How much of the antagonism is due to international differences over the quality of the pictures themselves, or even to legitimate defense of the native film industry—and how much the American ideas and standards of living diffused among the audiences abroad?

James R. Quirk, editor of Photo-play Magazine, raises the question in the May issue of his monthly. "The real reason for these embargoes lies far beyond industrial competition," he says. "It is that foreign governments feel the pictures are Americanizing their people and their colonies and that pictures made in Hollywood are influencing in a subtle and positive manner the adoption of American styles, manners, modes of living and standards of morals by the inhabitants of all climates."

HERBERT DAVIS IS CLAIMED BY DEATH HERE ON SATURDAY

After an illness of only a few hours, Herbert Davis, 56, well known Xenian, died at his home, 496 S. Detroit St., Saturday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock.

Death was directly due to cerebral hemorrhage, although he had been a sufferer from diabetes for the past eight years.

Mr. Davis was born August 11, 1871, at Pymouth, O., and spent most of his early life in and around West Milton. He was the son of Hiram and Samantha Campbell Davis and the eldest of five children. He had lived in Xenia thirty-one years, coming here at the time of his marriage.

Mr. Davis conducted a feed and grain business on W. Second St., for a number of years. Later he became a member of the firm of The Ervin Bros. and Davis Milling Co., continuing this connection until ill health caused him to retire from business and he sold his interest.

He was married to Cora Gilliland of Castile, O., who survives him with one daughter, Miss Margaret, who has been in New York the past year. Two brothers and two sisters, also survive: Mrs. Clark Kitchner, Hebron, Ind.; Mrs. Amos Ransbottom, Dresden, O.; Leander Davis, Richmond Ind. and John Davis, of Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. Davis was a member of the Friends Church, being one of the organizers of the present church in Xenia twenty years ago. He was an active member of the congregation during the entire period.

Funeral services will be held at the Friends Church, High and Chestnut Sts., Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Friends may call at the home Monday evening after 7 o'clock.

TO SPEAK HERE

JOHN ABEL

Why the Fraternal Order of Eagles is the fastest growing fraternal organization in North America will be explained by John Abel, Marion, O., state president of the order, in an address before Xenia Aerie, No. 1682, Friday night, April 27 at 8 o'clock.

Following precedent, Mr. Abel is engaged on a speaking tour during which he will speak before every aerie in Ohio, as has been customary in past years with all state presidents of the fraternity.

Secretary Otto Hornick desires a full attendance at the meeting. President Abel's talk will be followed by a "smoker," Aerie officials announce.

CABLE RAILWAY TO LINK VIENNA WITH ITS CONEY ISLAND

VIENNA, April 22.—Running at the tremendous speed of 250 miles per hour, a new cable railway will connect the Austrian capital with Lake Neusiedl in the province Burgenland. Viennese will be able to reach in a little more than twelve minutes the beautiful lake-side resort lying at a distance of approximately fifty miles southeast of Vienna.

This new railway is to be a combination of ropeway and airship, the cars running along a system of ropes, which rest on strong iron pillars, and will be driven by propellers. The mechanism of the car is to be similar to that of an airplane and its shape will resemble a giant's egg or torpedo. In each car there will be room for a hundred travelers, their baggage and mail.

The construction of the "airplane-railway" is to be financed by a private company, supported by the provinces of Burgenland which hopes to make Lake Neusiedl a sort of "Coney Island" combined with the Atlantic City of the Vienna.

"The speed of life in Austria is, however, nothing like the speed of an airplane railway," remarked one of the Vienna newspapers presenting the above news to its readers. "It would be a real marvel, if this technical marvel could be completed in Austria, before it is introduced in most European countries not to speak of the U. S. A."

WILL GIVE GILBERT AND SULLIVAN OPERA

Faculty and students of Antioch College are scheduled to present "The Pirates of Penzance," an opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, for the benefit of the Social Service League May 9, 10 and 11. It is announced.

A special matinee for children will be given Wednesday, April 9. The performance the two following nights at 8 o'clock are for the public.

URGENT PLANTING OF TREES ARBOR DAY

Complying with the agitation for re-forestation over the United States, the Xenia Garden Club is urging that anyone who has planned to plant a tree in Shawnee Park, do so on Arbor Day, Friday, April 27.

The trees will be planted in the park by the Garden Club, free of charge. Anyone desiring to have one planted can communicate with Mrs. Charles A. Keible, president. Memberships in the Garden Club for this year are now due and can be paid at the C. A. Keible store. Flower seeds are also on sale by the Club, at the Keible store.

The annual rose and perennial sale will be held by the club soon. Mrs. Keible announces.

Farm Notes

INVESTIGATE TAXES

Farmers and other tax payers have a better opportunity to study government expenses and find methods for reducing tax burdens this year than at any time during recent years. This opinion is held by officials of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation who are urging farmers of every taxing district to appoint committees to look into the tax situation.

Ohio's budget law, said to be one of the best in the country, has been in operation long enough so that past budgets of each taxing district are available for study now.

Farmers who are complaining of burdensome taxes can well afford to study these budgets as a guide to expenditures of tax money the coming year. Under the budget law individual tax payers, or committees representing them, may have a voice in the way their tax money is spent by working with public officials in the preparation of budgets for the year.

While budgets are not made out until mid-summer, farm bureau officers in Greene County are being urged to name committees now to start looking over past budgets. In most communities, nearly 90 per cent of the tax money is spent locally, and only careful budgeting and local economy will materially reduce individual tax bills on rural property, say farm bureau officers.

Thomas Taggart, French Lick Springs, Ind., may be a guest and speaker at a joint meeting of Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs here soon.

H. E. Rice, chairman of a Kiwanis committee arranging a program for May 22, has learned that Mr. Taggart will not be able to attend on that date but will be glad to come to Xenia in June at a date yet to be selected.

He has also indicated that he may bring Mrs. Taggart and that the visit may be a celebration of their fifth wedding anniversary which occurs June 17. Since that date is on Sunday, Mr. Taggart did not indicate to Mr. Rice whether he would accept the joint Rotary-Kiwanis invitation for that date or whether he would spend several days here and be available for another date for an address.

Coming to Xenia is "coming home" for Mr. Taggart who spent his early life in this city. Later he became prominent and successful as the developer of the famous health and play resort at French Lick Springs, but has always maintained his warm feeling for Xenia.

For years he has been prominently identified with Democratic politics in his adopted state and is rated as a national figure in the councils of that party.

Xenians believe that should he decide to celebrate his golden wedding anniversary here the occasion would have particular significance. A joint Rotary-Kiwanis reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Taggart will be arranged, it is believed, if they decide to come to Xenia at that time.

WILL VISIT DAYTON

DAYTON, O., April 22.—The French commission on aeronautical propaganda will visit Dayton, in May or June, at the suggestion of Myron T. Horrick, ambassador to France, according to word received here today. The visitors are coming to the United States to make a study of aerial development and matters pertaining thereto, to which deal with popularizing that form of transportation.

The telephone company, which is government-owned, now offers a phonographic register service to subscribers for a few dollars above the regular annual tolls. As soon as two parties are connected the recording disk functions catching every word.

Business men hail the device as a boon in interurban negotiations. Authorities point out the "invisible stenographer" will virtually preclude telephonic approach by blackmailers and kidnapers and speed up the apprehension of many other evil-doers.

Maitre Annet-Badel, lawyer of Paris, has a case before the courts in which he will introduce a phonograph record containing the deposition of a ballist who made his declaration over the telephone 500 miles from the capital.

CALVIN HATCHER DIES

Calvin B. Hatcher, a long resident of this city, passed away Saturday night, April 21, 1928 at 10:20 o'clock, at the Masonic Home, (Prince Hall Affiliation), in Urbana, Ohio, following an illness of about one and one-half years. The deceased was the son of William and Mary Hatcher and was born in Giles County, Virginia, but when a very young lad moved with his parents to Xenia, Ohio, where he has since resided.

In 1880 he was united in marriage to Mary Elizabeth Moody, who preceded him in death eleven years. To this union were born five children, four of whom survive; the oldest, Eva, having passed away when only six years of age. Six years ago he was married to Mrs. Jennie Castleman of Connersville, Ind.

Mr. Hatcher was a highly respected citizen of the community. He was always greatly devoted to Zion Baptist Church of which he had been trustee for thirty-one years and had served in many other offices of the church. At the time of his death he was also a member of Damon Lodge No. 29, K. of P. and Wilberforce Lodge, F. and

A. M., No. 21, also a member of Cherry Grove Cemetery Board.

Besides his wife there are surviving two sons and two daughters, Herbert of Chicago, Harold of Detroit, Michigan; Mr. Thelma Frye of New York and Mrs. Bertha Booth of this city; also one grand daughter, Zola Booth and one brother, P. M. Hatcher of Springfield, O.

His remains were removed to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Booth of Williams Ave. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at The Zion Baptist Church.

Mrs. F. A. Porter, Taylor St., who has been very ill with tonsillitis is somewhat improved.

Mrs. Emma Booth of the Fairground Road was a Sunday visitor of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Steward Coward, of near Jamestown.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lockett and Mr. Phillip Hatcher of Springfield were Sunday guests of Mrs. B. H. Booth, Williams Ave.

The Married Ladies' Afternoon Club held an interesting session Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Wright, N. Columbus Ave. The invited guests were: Mrs. P. A. Nichols, Mrs. Mary Wright and Mrs. Nettie Marsh. A delicious two course luncheon was served. Mrs. Mary Wright and Mrs. G. E. Clemens were hostesses.

Mrs. Irene Lane, E. Market St., was called a few days ago to Franklin, O., to the bedside of her sister, Mrs. Josephine Cox. The relatives received word that she passed away Friday. The funeral services were held Monday. Mr. Frosard Lane and sister, Mrs. Clara Diamond and children, left Sunday to attend the services.

The Edith Randolph Prayer Circle will hold its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Marie McCann, E. Church St.

Mrs. Rose Scott, E. Main St., is among the sick this week, suffering with grip.

Tauessant Lodge No. 1823 will meet Tuesday night at 7 o'clock for initiation. All members are asked to be present and on time.

Mrs. Anna B. Gilkey has been confined to her bed since last Wednesday with the grip.

Mothers' Day Is Almost Here

"All my life I've wanted an umbrella with a nice handle," sighed a little gray-haired woman recently, "but somehow I never seemed to get around to spending money on myself."

How well this little incident symbolizes the wistful yearnings after "nice things," the stifled personal vanities that the Mothers of the World tuck away in the bottommost corners of their hearts.

Our store is crammed from top to bottom with things to please Mother, from the most sensible of household wares to a frivolous boutonniere. It will really be a pleasure to help you with your gift problem. Won't you pay us a call?

HERBERT DAVIS IS CLAIMED BY DEATH HERE ON SATURDAY

After an illness of only a few hours, Herbert Davis, 56, well known Xenian, died at his home, 196 S. Detroit St., Saturday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock.

Death was directly due to cerebral hemorrhage, although he had been a sufferer from diabetes for the past eight years.

Mr. Davis was born August 11, 1871, at Plymouth, O., and spent most of his early life in and around West Milton. He was the son of Hiram and Samantha Campbell Davis and the eldest of five children. He had lived in Xenia thirty-one years, coming here at the time of his marriage.

Mr. Davis conducted a feed and grain business on W. Second St. for a number of years. Later he became a member of the firm of The Evin Bros. and Davis Milling Co., continuing this connection until ill health caused him to retire from business and he sold his interest.

He was married to Cora Gillman of Castine, O., who survives him with one daughter, Miss Margaret, who has been in New York the past year. Two brothers and two sisters, also survive: Mrs. Clark Kitchener, Hebron, Ind.; Mrs. Amos Ransbottom, Dresden, O.; Leander Davis, Richmond Ind. and John Davis, of Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. Davis was a member of the Friends Church, being one of the organizers of the present church in Xenia twenty years ago. He was an active member of the congregation during the entire period.

Funeral services will be held at the Friends Church, High and Chestnut Sts., Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Friends may call at the home Monday evening after 7 o'clock.

URGE PLANTING OF TREES ARBOR DAY

Complying with the agitation for reforestation, over the United States, the Xenia Garden Club is urging that anyone who had planned to plant a tree in Shawnee Park, do so on Arbor Day, Friday, April 27.

The trees will be planted in the park by the Garden Club, free of charge. Anyone desiring to have one planted can communicate with Mrs. Charles A. Kelble, president. Memberships in the Garden Club for this year are now due and can be paid at the C. A. Kelble store. Flower seeds are also on sale by the Club, at the Kelble store.

The annual rose and perennial sale will be held by the club soon, Mrs. Kelble announces.

TO SPEAK HERE

JOHN ABEL

Why the Fraternal Order of Eagles is the fastest growing fraternal organization in North America will be explained by John Abel, Marion, O., state president of the order, in an address before Xenia Aerie, No. 1689, Friday night, April 27 at 8 o'clock.

Following precedent, Mr. Abel is engaged on a speaking tour during which he will speak before every Aerie in Ohio, as has been customary in past years with all state presidents of the fraternity. Secretary Otto Horvath desires a full attendance at the meeting. President Abel's talk will be followed by a "smoker," Aerie of Xenia announces.

CABLE RAILWAY TO LINK VIENNA WITH ITS CONEY ISLAND

VIENNA, April 22—Running at the tremendous speed of 250 miles per hour, a new cable railway will connect the Austrian capital with Lake Neusiedl in the province Burgenland. Viennese will be able to reach in a little more than twelve minutes the beautiful lakeside resort (lying at a distance of approximately fifty miles southeast of Vienna).

This new railway is to be a combination ropeway and airship, the car, running along a series of ropes, which rest on strong iron pillars, and will be driven by propellers. The mechanism of the car is to be similar to that of an airplane and its shape will resemble a gigantic cigar or torpedo. In each car there will be room for a hundred travelers, their luggage and mail.

The construction of the "air plane-railway" is to be financed by a private company, supported by the province of Burgenland, which hopes to make Lake Neusiedl a sort of "Coney Island" combined with the Atlantic City of the Viennese.

"The speed of life in Austria is, however, nothing like the speed of an airplane," remarked one of the Vienna newspapers presenting the above news to its readers. "It would be a real marvel if this technical marvel could be completed in Austria, before it is introduced in most European countries not to speak of the U. S. A."

INVESTIGATE TAXES

Farmers and other tax payers have a better opportunity to study government expenses and find methods for reducing tax burdens this year than at any time during recent years. This opinion is held by officials of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation who are urging farmers of every taxing district to appoint committees to look into the tax situation.

Ohio's budget law, said to be one

THOMAS TAGGART IS INVITED TO ATTEND JOINT KI-RO PARTY

Thomas Taggart, French Lick Springs, Ind., may be a guest and speaker at a joint meeting of Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs here soon. H. E. Rice, chairman of a Kiwanis committee arranging a program for May 22, has learned that Mr. Taggart will not be able to attend on that date but will be glad to come to Xenia in June at a date yet to be selected.

He has also indicated that he may bring Mrs. Taggart and that the visit may be a celebration of their fifth wedding anniversary which occurs June 17. Since that date is on Sunday, Mr. Taggart does not indicate to Mr. Rice whether he would accept the joint Rotary-Kiwanis invitation for that date or whether he would spend several days here and be available for another date for an address.

Coming to Xenia is "coming home" for Mr. Taggart who spent his early life in this city. Later he became prominent and successful as a developer of the famous French Lick Springs, but has always maintained his warm feeling for Xenia. For years he has been prominently identified with Democratic politics in his adopted state and is rated as a national figure in the councils of that party.

Xenians believe that should he decide to celebrate his golden wedding anniversary here the occasion would have particular significance. A joint Rotary-Kiwanis reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Taggart will be arranged, it is believed, if they decide to come to Xenia at that time.

WILL VISIT DAYTON

DAYTON, O., April 23—The French commission on aeronautical propaganda will visit Dayton, in May or June, at the suggestion of Myron T. Horick, ambassador to France, according to word received here today. The visitors are coming to the United States to make a study of aerial development and matters pertaining thereto, to which deal with popularizing that form of transportation.

of the best in the country, has been in operation long enough so that past budgets of each taxing district are available for study now. Farmers who are complaining of burdensome taxes can well afford to study these budgets as a guide to expenditures of tax money the coming year. Under the budget law individual tax payers, or committees representing them, may have a voice in the way their tax money is spent by working with public officials in the preparation of budgets for the year.

While budgets are not made out until mid-summer, farm bureau officers in Greene County are being urged to name committees now to start looking over past budgets. In most communities, nearly 90 per cent of the tax money is spent locally, and only careful budgeting and local economy will materially reduce individual tax bills on rural property, say farm bureau officers.

FRENCH PHONE FIRMS FOILS FELONS WITH FALSE PHONOGRAPH

PARIS, April 23—Blackmailers can no longer use the telephone in France with impunity. In fact any conversation sub rosa in nature can be carried on only with the greatest danger over the wires.

The telephone company, which is government-owned, now offers a phonographic register service to subscribers for a few dollars above the regular annual tolls. As soon as two parties are connected the recording disk functions catching every word.

Business men hail the device as a boon in interurban negotiations. Authorities point out the "invisible stenographer" will virtually preclude telephonic approach by blackmailers and kidnappers and speed up the apprehension of many other evil-doers.

Maitre Annet-Bedel, lawyer of Paris, has a case before the courts in which he will introduce a phonograph record containing the deposition of a bailiff who made his declaration over the telephone 500 miles from the capital.
